Suspect held in double shooting

A Wilmington man was arrested Monday night at the scene of a double shooting at 6 Kelley Rd. The arrest was made at gunpoint by Sgt. James Rooney and Officer David McCue.

Arrested was Louis Gauthier, 52, living at 6 Kelley Rd., Wilmington. Wounded in the incident was Robert Cleary, 35 of 51 Salisbury Street, Winchester. He was hit in the left side by one bullet and was transported by Wilmington Fire Department ambulance to Choate Hospital where he was admitted to surgery.

Also wounded was Allison White, 23 of 6 Kelley Road who was shot in the shoulder. She was also taken to Choate Hospital from where she was transferred to Mass. General. At this time both victims are stable according to hospital authorities.

The shooting erupted shortly after 6 p.m. as a result of some domestic problems as far as police can tell at this time.

Gauthier was charged with assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon (a revolver), two counts; assault with a dangerous weapon, one count; three charges of assault with intent to murder and unlicensed carrying of a firearm.

The incident took place at the home of Sybil Dalton, the mother of Allison White. Officers also report Gauthier shot at Mrs. Dalton but missed.

Assisting at the investigation were Chief Stewart, Lt. LaRivee, Det. Sgt. Shephard and Insp. Jepson, Deputy Chief Nally, Sgt. Gable, and investigators for the Middlesex D.A.'s office.

Tuesday morning Judge Francis Cullen placed a $100,000 bail on Gauthier or $10,000 in cash pending further court appearances. The case was continued to May 1.

Shooting suspect Under arrest for a double shooting, Louis Gauthier peers from the window of a Wilmington police cruiser. The officer is Chris Neville.

Incumbents rule in low-turnout election

The Wilmington election on Saturday held few surprises. All incumbents save one were returned to office. Turnout was light, with only 2299 voters at the polls, plus 103 absentee ballots.

In the one upset of the day, John Gillis soundly defeated incumbent Larry Juergens for a seat on the Shawsheen Valley Regional Vocational School Committee. The vote was 1525 for Gillis, to 630 for Juergens.

Robert Doucette topped the selectmen's race with 1666 votes. Dan Ballou also retained his seat, drawing 1469 votes. Challengers David Fitzgerald and Arthur Ryder had 827 votes and 292 votes, respectively.

Rezoning article to be withdrawn

A hotly-contested rezoning article will be withdrawn on the floor of town meeting Saturday. Attorney Joseph Shanahan, representing Lester Chisholm, told the Wilmington Planning Board on Tuesday night that Article 28 would be withdrawn. The article was to rezone the Chisholm milk farm from R60 to R20.

According to planning coordinator Sandra Murphy, Shanahan said his client will go before the board at a later date with a preliminary plan for an R60 subdivision.

According to Murphy, Shanahan explained that Chisholm felt the issue was now one of pride and integrity and that was worth more to him than the feelings of "animosity" aroused in the past weeks. Shanahan further stressed that no purchase or sales agreement had been signed with any developer

The town meeting, which is set for 1:30 p.m. at the Aleppo Temple (Shriners' Auditorium) on Fordham Road, will open with a continued article from a special town meeting held in December. That article sought to take the old Roberts estate land by eminent domain. A subdivision of 56 homes is proposed for that land. In the December special town meeting, voters approved the rezoning of that land from R20 to R60, a move which will probably have no effect. Developer James DeCarolis has an approved definitive plan for houses on R20 lots.

Once the continued special town meeting is out of the way, the annual town meeting will begin, with the budget among the first items of business.

Reading Light calls report 'seriously flawed'

Statement issued by Reading Municipal Light Dept.

Recently the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) received a copy of a progress report relative to the evaluation of the Town of Wilmington's options for electric service other than Reading Municipal Light.

While it is not the intent of the RMLD to become involved in the Town of Wilmington's business, since the report is so seriously flawed, we feel that we are obligated to make some comments relative to the errors and miscalculations.

The cost of buying the Wilmington section of the total RMLD Plant is grossly understated, the purchase price using unusual standards would be at least $15,000,000. In addition to that amount, Wilmington's cost of developing a 115 KV interconnection would be at least $5,000,000, and in order to serve the Wilmington section from that connection, there would be an additional cost of an estimated $4,000,000. To these amounts the Town of Wilmington would have to develop a servicing department (i.e. maintenance, meter work, billing, etc.) An inventory of at least $500,000. would have to be maintained.

Reading's 1985 cost of purchased power is stated as being 7.6 cents per KWH, it was actually 6.12 cents. It was actually 7.9 cents and 11.3 percent error.

The report assumes that you can serve the Wilmington load of 60,000 KW with a 60,000 KW generating plant. Generating plants requires reserves and allowances for growth which were not included. The report is inconsistent as to the cost of such a plant. We also question whether Wilmington would want to use its vital water supply to provide the considerable amount of water needed to operate a combined cycle generating plant. No consideration is given the severance costs of Reading, the considerable rebuilding of the existing distribution system in Wilmington after being cut off from its present sources to make it into a viable distribution system, the construction cost of a facility to connect to another utility's transmission system and the considerable time required to carry out such a construction program.

No consideration is given to Wilmington having to assume the power contracts that Reading has entered into a supply the rapidly expanding load in Wilmington.

No consideration is given to the payment of the tremendous debt that Wilmington will have to assume in order to purchase and construct its own system.

No consideration is given to the accumulation of working capital and reserves for the kinds of contingencies that utilities experience.

The report understates fuel cost as it does not include energy purchases from others when the generating plant is out of service for repairs or due to an unscheduled outage.

At the present time RMLD residential rates are among the lowest in the Commonwealth. For example, our customer's bill for 500 KWH in February was $31.64. Massachusetts Electric charged $43.10 and Boston Edison charged $46.69. In March our bill increased to $35.19. Our commercial and industrial rates are well within those private utilities.

The report projections of Reading's Purchased Power costs are completely erroneous. There will be but one more rate increase impact attributable to Seabrook and it will be moderate.

Our conclusion is that the report does not truthfully produce an opportunity for any meritorious consideration.

On your feet

Ingrown toenails are one of the most common complaints that cause people to seek the attention of a Podiatrist. This disorder is usually caused by an inherited abnormal curvature along the sides of the toenail; thickening of the nails as seen with a fungal toenail infection; and aggravated by shoe gear. Rarely it may be caused by a bone spur pressing on the underside of the nail.

Following a thorough examination we will discuss our findings and treatment modalities. Correction is usually aimed at removal of the offending portion of nail and eliminating any infection that may be present. These procedures are done in the office operating under safe local anesthesia. New techniques allow faster recovery and earlier return to normal daily activities with minimal post operative discomfort.

It is important to remember that people with impaired circulation to the feet and lower legs are more prone to infections caused by ingrown toenails. These people should seek prompt treatment for their foot problems. Periodic foot examinations are recommended to help prevent any future foot problems.

Lisa Davis to wed Scott Wallace

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis of Portsmouth, Rhode Island have announced the engagement of their daughter Lisa Beth to Scott Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Wallace, Jr. of Wilmington.

Lisa is a graduate of Portsmouth High School, 1982.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Shawsheen Tech.

Diane Silverman engaged

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Silverman of Wilmington, Mass. have announced the engagement of their daughter Diane to Andrew L. Fransman.

Diane is a 1976 graduate of Wilmington High School. She received a Bachelor of Science degree from Northeastern University in 1981. She is presently the corporate administrator and assistant to the president of Berlin Sales, Inc. in Dedham.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Fransman of Randolph, Mass. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in computer systems engineering from the University of Mass. at Amherst Campus in 1979. He is a senior engineer for Analog Devices in Norwood.

Flea market April 26

The Tewksbury Congregational Church will sponsor a large scale yard sale in its parking lot on East Street in Tewksbury center from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, April 26. If it rains, the sale will move inside the church to the recreation hall.

Yard sale coordinator Pat Millward said items range as low in price as five cents and a few things are over $10. The collection of treasures and trophies includes garden tools, household goods, including lamps, glassware, jewelry, books, toys and clothing for both children and adults.

She said there will also be a few electric adding machines, pictures, frames, pots and pans, and an array of miscellany including a stove hood.

The church welcomes further donations of items for the sale from anyone, and Ms. Millward said she will accept items on consignment. She can be reached at 657-7185.

Eileen London engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Olin M. London, formerly of Wilmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eileen Mary, to Timothy Clough Masters of Marcellus, New York and Nantucket, son of Mrs. John P. Hageman and Robert Masters of Syracuse, New York.

Eileen is a graduate of Wilmington High School, Class of 1977, Colby-Sawyer College and the University of Massachusetts - Amherst. She is in a master's degree program in city planning at Boston University and is employed by the State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering in Boston.

Timothy is a graduate of Marcellus, New York High School, Class of 1975, State University of New York at Morrisville and is studying business administration at Boston University. He is employed by John Hancock Financial Services in Boston. An August wedding will be held in Chatham, Mass.

Sewer plans filed for Burlington Ave.

Plans have been filed with the Wilmington Planning Board, and the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners for Charles Place, so-called, a real estate development behind the Roberts house, on Burlington Avenue in Wilmington. The "definitive" plan was filed on April 1.

The Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners examined the plan for sewer proposals on April 17 and have several proposals to make on their part.

A 12 inch sewer main is proposed to be installed on Burlington Avenue, from Floradale Avenue to a point westerly of Mill Brook, which brook flows near the Deming Way housing project. A lot of deep cuts will be made, according to the proposal. At the point where the sewer would pass Harris Street, it would be 25 feet below the street level.

The water and sewer commissioners feel that a 12 inch sewer will not suffice. They are sending the proposal to their planning engineer, and believe he too will feel that a larger sewer main will be needed.

The plan shows an eight inch main from Burlington Avenue into the proposed housing project, to go "across country," behind the Michel home, by an easement. The sewer would join with Princess Diane Drive, in back of the Michel home, and connect with other main, all to be eight inch.

The commissioners feel that the sewer main should not be on an easement, but should connect with the Burlington Avenue sewer via Princess Diane Drive. They further felt that there should be a "manhole" at the place where it connects with the Burlington Avenue main.

The definitive plan, presented to the planning board has house lots based on an R20 zoning, for a total of 56 lots. The land has been rezoned in town meeting to R60 (60,000 square foot) lots.

However, because the developer, James DeCarolis of Tewksbury, had filed his plans before the rezoning was voted he has eight years "protection" before the new zoning becomes final.

Oath of office

Newly elected and re-elected Wilmington town officials were given the oath of office Saturday night by Town Clerk Patty Lynch (back to camera). From left, school committee members Anthony Accardi and Mitchell Spiras, housing authority member Warren Newhouse, regional school committee member John Gillis, selectmen Robert Doucette and Dan Ballou, redevelopment authority member Jay Donovan and Moderator Michael Cairn. Newhouse took the oath in his Minuteman uniform. He marched to Concord with the Minutemen, went to Springfield for a health fair, and arrived back in Wilmington in time to take the oath.

Wilmington drops plans for local odor law, opts for state regs

by Arlene Surprenant

A local nuisance law, proposed by the Wilmington Board of Health to govern odors and air pollution never reached the public hearing stage. Instead, the board members opted to enforce a DEQE air quality regulation already in place.

The newly formulated law was frowned on by the state Dept. of Environmental Quality Engineering as "too vague," said Chairman Dr. James Ficociello Tuesday night. Though his board had hoped to enforce its own law, a law with more "teeth," members agreed to work with the DEQE ruling.

The DEQE regulation covers dust, odor, construction, and demolition air pollution. According to the ruling, no person in control of any dust or odor generating operation shall permit emissions which would contribute to a condition of air pollution. Violators will be hit with a stiff fine of $100 to $500 per day. This is seen as the main advantage of the regulation as opposed to the $20 per day fine which would have been allowed under the nuisance law, said Dr. Ficociello.

The main disadvantage to the regulation is that violators have the right to appeal to DEQE, thus taking control out of local hands.

State planning new interchange at Route 125/93

The Ballardvale Street - Route 125 - Route 93 interchange is being slated for improvement, in a program that will probably take 10 years to complete.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski told the directors of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce about the progress to date, Tuesday noon. He and some selectmen had had a meeting with the state DPW Commissioner, Tierney, last winter. Present for the discussion were Senator Buell, Rep. Miceli and some Andover officials.

There will be some complexities, in the new interchange, he said. At the present time there are 10,000 cars a day at the interchange. This number is expected to double by 1990.

State designers are proposing a bridge which would go over Ballardvale Street, at Route 125, and would also go over some of the Corey property, southward. Ballardvale Street would have "forks" to enable autos to go onto and off the street from 125. There would be only right hand turns.

At today's costs, an estimate said the new interchange would cost $14 million. The costs of the environmental study, which must be first accomplished, are estimated at $500,000. The study would take two years.

The locality (Wilmington and Andover) is supposed to pay 40 percent of the environmental costs, and part of the talk by Stapczynski was to see about contributions to the expense. He said that he understood that Andover was willing to contribute to the cost.

Stapczynski assured his listeners that he would not have such a study continue, unless he could "see something coming out of it."

A look at Wilmington's town meeting articles

Next Saturday will be the opportunity for every voter of Wilmington to put on his or her fez, and go to Aleppo Temple, on Fordham Road for the annual town meeting. It starts at 1:30 p.m.

Aleppo Temple is at the end of Fordham Road, which is off Concord Street, at the North Reading line. The town meeting is being held there because of the construction at the high school.

The Shriners, who will be hosts for the town meeting are the good guys who take care of children in their own hospitals, both for injuries and burns. Several Wilmington children have been guests in their hospitals in the past several years.

Will there be a thousand voters at the annual town meeting? It is doubtful but it is possible, too. Some might be attracted by the curiosity factor, and there are more than a few controversial articles.

There is fun, for some, in attending town meetings. The moderator is supreme. His word is law. He can even overrule the town counsel. This happened once, about 30 or 35 years ago, and anyone who was at that meeting has never forgotten the gasp of surprise when Town Counsel Phillip Buzzell was overruled by Moderator Dave Elfman.

There are two items of business which will probably be taken up before the annual meeting starts.

There is a special town meeting, for the transfer of funds between departments. The fincom has approved. It is non-controversial.

There is also a special town meeting recessed, which is a horse of a slightly different color. Article 9 of the special town meeting of Dec. 2, 1985 was recessed to April 26, at 1:30 p.m.

In both instances the moderator may take up the articles at a time of his choosing. The chances are that he will do so at or about 1:30 p.m.

Article 9, of the recessed special town meeting calls for taking by eminent domain the property behind the Roberts Estate on Burlington Avenue. The idea seems to be to stop the development of the property, which is owned by James DeCarolis of Tewksbury.

There are 56 lots on the plan, and the sewer program has been developed. To make a guess, the cost of taking by eminent domain will be over five millions, which of course would have to be paid.

Article 5

Article 5 in the warrant is where the business of the town meeting really starts - the voting of the budget. It will begin at about 2 p.m. and last, probably, until 5 or 5:30.

Nearly every voter has received a copy of the warrant, in the mail. It will be noted that the finance committee (fincom) has made recommendations on the financial aspects of the warrant.

Last year the fincom chopped down some items in the school committee budget. This year the school committee budget is unchanged.

This year is the turn, it seems, for the town government to get chopped down. The fincom has chopped $500 here, and $500 there, in the various town departments. This is to be found principally in the training funds.

In Wilmington, thanks to the town manager type of government, the various heads of the departments attend training sessions, from time to time. There many problems are discussed with similar officials of other towns.

What's the cost? About $500. Presumably the fincom has a feeling that the town officials know it all, already.

This paper feels it is an error to cut funds used for training. By and large, the reading of Article five is almost dreary. Now and then there will be a challenge, or a demand for an explanation.

Readers of the budget will note that town officials are not to be classed as "underpaid." But, in Wilmington, the department heads are paid a little below the average, statewide.

To understand what is happening, examine, for instance, the account for the treasurer-collector, on page four.

The first figure in the right hand column is $36,073. That is the salary of the treasurer-collector, and includes such things as longevity.

Just below that is the figure $58,103. That is salaries for other persons (more than one) in the department.

The third figure is $11,338. It is for expenses. Compared to the figure for last year it is apparant that the fincom has cut $500. That, is to be guessed, is for training expenses.

The last figure, $14,000, is labeled tax title foreclosures. When someone forgets to pay the town taxes over the property -- the town forecloses. Later the town will sell, or the owner can redeem the property by paying the overdue tax, plus interest, plus costs.

It is very rare that the town loses money in such a transaction.

Look at other items -- say, the permanent building committee. There is only $2500 for salaries. That money goes to a part time clerk or secretary. The members of the permanent building committee get no pay.

Further on, the animal control officer gets "salaries." There is only one person, and she is a part time official. Her predecessor always sought to have the position made full time. Will this year be different?

The school budget occupies two pages. The fincom made no cuts this year. Presumably everyone is happy. The budget calls for $10,828,307.

On page 12 one finds that the sewer expenses have just about doubled. That is because of the increased charges by the MWRA. The Massachusetts Water Authority is trying to improve the system, in and near Boston Harbor.

Don't be afraid to ask questions, if needed. The work on the budget is good, but the voter is entitled to understand what is going on.

Once the town meeting gets through the budget the articles are to be considered. This generally starts about 5:30 p.m. The moderator draws numbers out of a hat or bowl, to find out which article is next.

This corrects a system the selectmen had for years, of putting a classification, to articles, so that certain ones always came first, and many other articles, at the end of the warrant, did not get considered. Call it "Random Choice," or "Russian Roulette."

Now the last article on the warrant might just be the first to be considered. That seems to be fair to all.

Article 11

Article 11, in the warrant, seems to be the first article in which one can find controversy. It is for the establishment of a Wilmington Municipal Light Department, or something like that. Those who read this paper last week should know what is being proposed.

A year ago the town meeting voter $15,000, for a study. The story last week was the results of that study. Another $15,000 is in the budget for this year, to carry that study still further.

Article 12

This article asks for additional money, for high school construction and equipment. The idea is to put all the eggs in one basket. That makes payment more simple.

There is a refund to come, from the state. It will amount to 60 or 65 percent. In this instance the idea is to cut down the amount of red tape, by doing everything at one time.

Article 14

For a study of Silver Lake, $21,000 is being requested, to which the state will appropriate $50,000. North Reading's town meeting, last week, voted for a similar article for Martin's Pond.

Article 15

There may be more than meets the eye, in this article, which asks for $80,000 to purchase railroad land, beside the Wildcat Railroad and next to Salem Street. There is about six acres of good land and three acres of wetlands. Find out what it is all about, before the vote.

Article 19

This article puts automobile dealers in the same classification as hamburger stands, in the zoning bylaw. The auto dealers will be in "high density business districts" which means that the parking will be more tightly controlled.

Article 21

This paper is not entranced with the idea of making the site of the former Walker School into a playground.

The area is close to Church Street. Speeding autos can be and perhaps will constitute a danger to children.

Back about 25 years ago, when the site for the police station was chosen, it was with the idea that eventually there could be a town hall beside it, on the school site. Make the area into a civic center was the idea, with the Rotary Park area as a playground.

Article 25

The basis for this article is a misunderstanding of the facts of population, in Wilmington. This article proposes to rezone all vacant land in Wilmington into R60 (60,000 square feet) lots.

It is quite evident that the proponents do not understand the problems. Those problems were, in part, spelled out in a General Plan Report, back in 1957, which can be found in the town report of that year.

It was a thorough study and it is still worthwhile reading. It estimated the 1980 population of Wilmington as being between 22,700 and 28,700, and said it would center around 25,000.

Actually the town has never gotten to 20,000, and is now losing population.

Yes, there are families coming in, and buying homes on R60 lots. But families of 25 years ago find that their children are moving to other towns because there is nothing but expensive land to be purchased.

Some families were smart, and purchased several acre lots, with the idea of providing land for their offspring. This article puts a spike into that idea. The parents are to be punished for their foresight.

The General Plan Report was based on the belief that a lot of the property that is now called wetlands could be used for housing. Today that is impossible. The state has changed things, by changing the laws.

The sale of town owned land to the young families has been stopped, for three years. That, too is a part of the problem, and it can be noted, one of the proponents of this article is said to own such a lot of land, where his home is.

Unfortunately the proponents have been disseminating false "facts," and, also illegal statements.

They would have the voters believe that the town will bear the expenses in further real estate developments. That is not correct, and has not been, for years. All real estate developers in Wilmington pay for the roads, sidewalks, sewers, etc., etc. The town pays nothing.

The proponents, or someone acting for them, distributed leaflets during the election last weekend. There was no signature, thus violating Chapter 56, Section 41 of the Massachusetts General Laws.

Their zeal is commendable. It could and should be devoted to a good cause, once they know what they are talking about.

Rezoning to R60 is not the best idea in the world, in more ways than one.

Article 26

There is currently a sort of a squabble, down on Hillside Way, about a proposed nursing home. This article proposes to answer which is something like the old Volstead Act - some people are likely to get drunk, so therefore, let us not sell alcoholic beverages to anyone!

The proposal seeks to solve the problem of those who live near the proposed home, by declaring another prohibition, this time against nursing homes.

There must be a better answer. Surely, the proponents have by this time received the message, and are looking for another site. Declaring an absolute prohibition, as this would, is being unfair to those who are growing older.

Town manager plan needed

Tewksbury's selectmen and others, Tuesday evening debated for the first time the type government the town should have, if a town manager form of government is voted. Some in the audience seemed to blame the two men who were not re-elected recently for some of Tewksbury's present woes.

Tewksbury's woes do not come from those who in recent years have been selectmen. The woes go back to the 1950s, when Tewksbury's government did not wake up to the fact that the world was changing.

When Interstate Route 93 was being planned was the time that Tewksbury's officials should have acted. Its financial woes of today stem from those days, when large areas were set aside as industrial lands, but no roads were planned to serve those areas.

In Wilmington, which had adopted a town manager plan, the then town manager, Joseph Courtney, and others organized to be certain that Interstate 93 did provide roadways to the industrially zoned parts of Wilmington. That organization has paid off, in good roads, good schools, good government.

It isn't too late for a town manager form of government for Tewksbury, but there is much to be done before Tewksbury can get out of its financial hole.

Dear Larz:

On the eve of the anniversary of the beginning of freedom for America I can't keep my mouth shut nor pen from hand any longer.

I arrived home from work to find your paper with the headline "Carnival on hold, application withdrawn." Before I could say anything my wife said, "I think that stinks!"

That says it all - it stinks!

New England commons and their environs were and still are public gathering places for people to meet and enjoy themselves. The Fourth of July is America's birthday and a celebration is in order and appropriate.

It is sad and very pathetic that a very small group can show so little pride, so little patriotic spirit, so little consideration for the enjoyment of others and raise such a fuss about a few hours of happy noise that an entire town's celebration of our birthday gets cancelled.

Hasn't the common been there for a few years? Longer than most of the surrounding houses? Longer than the current residents?

If one wants to be alone than one does not purchase property next to public grounds that are there for the express purpose of public gatherings.

I am very sad that all the good work of the Fourth of July Committee is for naught.

If the ring-leaders of the malcontents will withdraw the opposition and let the games begin I will house swap with him or her for that week so they, he, she can be alone -- but I don't want them showing up at the carnival to spoil the party!!

Sincerely,

Bill MacKinnon

Dear Larz:

I think in the next town election all the campaign bylaws should just be thrown right off the books!

Is it not true that all campaign signs must be put on vehicles, that are registered? Many were not!

Is it not true that campaign material is not legally allowed to be placed in mailboxes? Example: 1) sent with endorsement on top campaign material folded inside. 2), placed in mailbox later Friday night the day before election. When I called the town hall I was told it was definitely against the law, but what could they do? Some names were used for campaign endorsement without ever obtaining permission from the people themselves.

Is it not true that by law all candidates running for office in the election must be 150 feet away from voting booths? At the Wildwood School this law was enforced but at the Town Hall it was a free for all for some candidates at the front door.

It is long and hard work to run for office in any town, but if these laws are not going to be taken seriously by some candidates then why have them at all? It is not fair to those candidates who took the time to make sure they followed every campaign bylaw.

P.S. To all the registered voters in Wilmington who took the time to vote (there were a few of us.) I say good for you! For those who didn't vote I say: Remember your vote could have made a difference.

Sincerely,

Linda Alpers

Dear Larz:

This Saturday town residents will be asked to consider Article 26, an article that seeks to prohibit locating hospitals, nursing homes and community health centers in residential districts. The current zoning bylaw allows these types of facilities in residential districts by special permit.

Since 1978, more than 85,000 individuals have sought medical care at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. On a daily basis we treat as many as 300 individuals. In the last two years alone, we have experienced a 30 percent increase in patient services to the extent that we recently completed substantial renovations within our existing building to provide expanded space for our pediatric, ophthalmology, physical, occupational and speech therapy services.

While we do not have any immediate plans to expand, our historical growth suggests that additional building space could be required in the future, and if that will be the case, we would like to have the flexibility to expand. If Article 26 is passed, it is conceivable that the Health Center's future expansion would not be possible. Likewise, our abilities to meet the ever increasing need for health care services could be jeopardized.

I urge all residents to vote on no on Article 26.

Sincerely,

Nicholas A. Balog
Director

Dear Larz:

In response to Mr. Chisholm's letter to the editor last week, let me set the record straight for the people of Wilmington.

First and foremost, Mr. Chisholm seems to have a complete disregard for the facts and a flair for the untruth. Nowhere in my letter did I make or even come close to the ludicrous quite he attributes to me ("that no one can build next to my home"). The proof for all to see can be found by re-reading my letter (April 9 issue) or by stopping by the Town Crier office for a copy. The facts will speak for themselves.

Secondly, the quote by Mr. Chisholm ("pure snobbishness") is totally absurd. My neighbors and I have always cared enough about this town to get involved. We are realistic enough to know that planned growth can be a plus for a town. We welcome proper development.

The 20 to 30 homes Mr. Chisholm can build on his land with the correct and proper zoning (R60) would be a welcome sight and would, hopefully, put a stop to the rash of brush fires, indiscriminate cutting of trees, motor bike traffic, and harassment we've endured in the past weeks.

Some people have accused us of being totally against any new development in town and developers, in particular. Nothing could be further from the truth. It is certainly a landowner's or developer's right to build and make a profit. However, please take into account the rights of abutters, neighbors, and townspeople. It is not fair to make access profits at our expense! We have to live here too!

Signed,

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

What better way to get sun-burned, lose all sense of feeling in your legs, and have your hands blistered to death, than to work the polls last Saturday for your favorite candidates. For those of you who may have been sun-bathing with Mickey Mouse, the following is a detailed and accurate account of Election Day 1986.

As you can guess, the weather could not have cooperated more than it did; though the wind in the morning was a bit much. There is something about the Wildwood School that resembles a wind tunnel. Things were a bit nicer though at the Glen Road School - or I should say the New Temporary Town Hall. The pine trees protected us all from the gusty wind, so that our political signs did not act as sails.

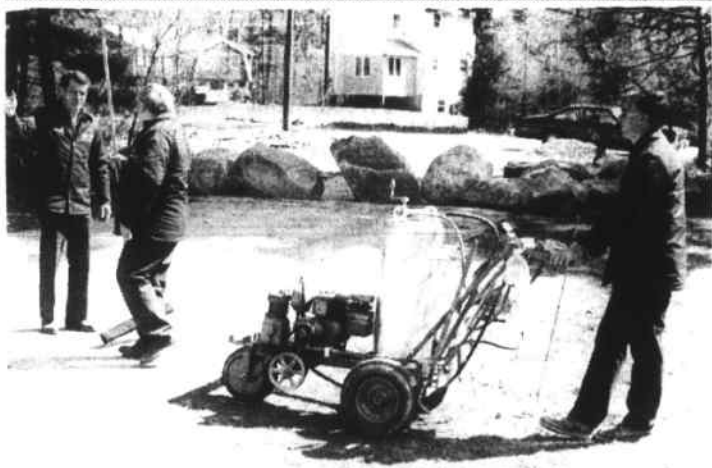

All of the candidates were their old nervous selves. Who can be calm when your up for election or re-election? They were as friendly as ever to the voters walking inside to vote, yet one candidate found it offensive that the voters had to walk through a group of candidates in order to get inside to the polls. However, I think most would disagree, whereas it is part of democracy to see candidates working hard for the votes, and their approaching all the voters to ask for support only adds to the excitement of the day.

Meanwhile, the long road leading to the Town Hall found campaign workers lined up at attention on both sides armed with their particular signs. One would think the National Anthem was playing. Those workers who were more intelligent than the rest of us brought lawn chairs. The rest of us just looked upon them as sissies.

As the morning turned into afternoon, things got tough. Every time a car drove down to the polls, it was a monumental event. It is quite apparent that between the hours of one and five, the last thing anyone in the world wants to do is vote. I guess it's out of fashion if people see that you don't have anything better to do with your Saturday afternoon. In any event, six o'clock saw a resurgence in the turnout, so that by the time polls were closed at eight o'clock, the total number of votes cast was over 2400.

The most painful part of the day was now about to start. Everyone could start biting the old fingernails as the numbers were read off the sheets that are pulled from the automatic voting machines. At the moments passed, the results became more and more clear to everyone concerned. There is something about hearing those figures read aloud that brings a smile to my face. In spite of a long, hard, and often times spicy campaign season, the town can not sit back and recognize the winners for their victories, and those who were less successful for their sincere efforts. Most importantly, the time had come for everyone to unite.

All the candidates deserve congratulations for being involved in the process known as local government. They worked hard for your votes, discussed the issues publicly, and made the town better off because of it. Everyone can sit back now and take a breather - a well deserved one.

What line?

For all the good it did, lines were set 150 feet from the front door of the Wilmington Town Hall, indicating the point beyond which there was to be no electioneering. But the candidates paid no attention and gathered at the door, asking for votes during Saturday's election.

No new application for carnival appeal

A group of abutters turned out at Tuesday's Wilmington Board of Appeals meeting to hear for themselves that the Fourth of July Committee had withdrawn its application for a carnival at the Swain School during the July Fourth celebration. Most of the abutters were the same residents who showed up at prior meetings to voice their objection to holding the carnival so close to their backyards.

Chairman Bruce MacDonald told the audience the carnival at the Swain School was a "dead issue" this year and no new application has been filed. But he didn't rule out the possibility that the committee may have another site in mind.

School committee discussion gets hot

by Arlene Surprenant

A discussion on discipline and the adoption of a new school policy for special education students led to a heated exchange among some members of the Wilmington School Committee at the last committee meeting.

Shirley Callan challenged her fellow board members to see that the process in place to help teenagers in trouble be followed and made public so parents know it's available.

"If the process is not being followed, it's not worth the paper it's written on," said Callan, adding that getting help for students who need it is "one

Part of the process is a parental request for a Pupil Study Team (PST) to discuss the student's problem, look at records and diagnostic information, suggest student program modifications, and monitor changes in the student's program for approximately four weeks. At the end of that time, students may be referred to Special Education Director Cleo Fredette for the more thorough Team Evaluation. The whole process may be requested if any number of conditions exist, including suspension, failure, absenteeism, and negative behavior.

Though Superintendent Robert Horan explained that the number of referrals from parents is on the rise, Fredette said there is "a significant erosion" of referrals in some schools. He added he hopes to provide more information through special workshop he will conduct in the fall.

Callan said that though special education students may be adequately covered by the PST, for regular students "it just doesn't happen." The school system, she went on, is failing the middle range student and the process is becoming "a farce."

Committeeman Bridget Zukas took exception to this statement saying parents are never refused if they request a PST and, though the process is far from perfect, it's not a farce.

Phil Fenton suggested modifying the student handbooks to let parents know the PST is available simply by requesting it of the school principal.

Flurry of plans filed for subdivisions

by Arlene Surprenant

An influx of preliminary plans for subdivisions -- approximately 17 in all -- have recently come in to the Wilmington Planning Board office. Planning Coordinator Sandra Murphy attributes the latest submissions, including 10 on Tuesday alone, to the appearance of Article 25 on the annual town meeting warrant.

As a form of "protection," said Murphy, builders are submitting their plans in case the article is approved. The article would affect only residential property presently containing 60,000 square feet or more and make such land R60 zone. The intent of the article, according to petitioner Al Cuoco, is to limit the number of homes which could be built in a subdivision. The article is backed by the Wilmington Neighborhood Association, an organization made up of neighbors from several areas in town.

Also on the board is a definitive plan for a 56 lot subdivision off Burlington Avenue known as Charles Place. According to Murphy, the Planning Board did accept the plan, which was submitted April 1, since all necessary requirements were covered. The developer did not go to the Conservation Committee as suggested by the Planning Board, said Murphy. However, a letter was sent to the Commission asking members to review and comment on the definitive plan, which is basically the same as the preliminary plan, she added.

A public hearing is expected to be held on the plan the third or fourth week in May. An action deadline has been set for May 31.

The subdivision is the subject of a special town meeting scheduled for this Saturday. Voters will decide at that time whether the town should take action to take that land by eminent domain and turn it over to the Conservation Commission.

Misunderstanding on septic plans for Wilmington housing

by Arlene Surprenant
A misunderstood and communications snafu led to a surprise visit by two members of the Board of Health to the Wilmington Housing Authority (WHA) meeting Tuesday night.

The design of the septic system for the eight proposed low to moderate income homes slated for construction soon led to some intense discussion both at an earlier Board of Health meeting and the later meeting.

According to a plan submitted by architect Michael Hicks, the septic design calls for the use of trenches rather than beds for the leeching fields. Traditionally, the Board of Health only approves the use of beds with a minimum of 800 square feet rather than the less costly trenches and pits preferred by DEQE. This is the only type of sub-surface disposal system approved in Wilmington, said board chairman Dr. James Ficociello, though others may be looked at on a case by case basis, he added.

Domenic Tutela said he has a lot of problems with the application of trench design. He stressed that board members just want to make sure owners of the new homes have a system as good as anyone else and they will be careful that any action taken does not jeopardize the state funding.

At the WHA meeting, Tutela said he was "embarrassed" that someone approved something that's "not up to standard." When he and others saw the plans one and a half months ago, he added, trenches weren't considered "a viable alternative" and obviously a misunderstanding had taken place. Approximately 14 other points in the plans have already been addressed since that time.

Executive Director Lillian Buckley said she couldn't understand how so much time could go by without any notification that there was a problem with the septic design. Several other WHA members expressed similar concern.

Both boards hope to move swiftly to contact the architect and address the problem.

Leash law can save dogs

"The dog's been hit three times. You think he'd have learned by now."

Wilmington Dog Officer Ellen Webster is surprised that some dog owners haven't learned by now. Wilmington has a leash law. But she attributes the above quote to the owner of a dog recently hit by a car.

Since taking the dog officer's job last month, she has had a quick lesson in the greatest problem for dogs in a town like Wilmington -- cars. She receives more calls for dogs that have been hit than for any other problem.

"I think it's a sin -- these dogs don't know any better." Therefore, their only protection from cars is to be tied up. But in too many cases, the owner does not tie the dog.

Spring is an especially bad time to let dogs run loose, she said, because it is the season when females will come into heat. And when this occurs, even a well-behaved male who "never leaves the yard" will head for an area where a female is kept.

The result, of course, is an unruly pack of dogs, which can endanger children.

The town leash law provides for a $15 fine for unleashed dogs. Add to this a kennel fee of $10 a day, and maybe a fine for an unlicensed dog. Isn't that enough to make you want to tie your dog?

Inez N. Cameron

Mrs. Inez N. Cameron (Ayer), of Union, Maine died at the New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham on March 27, after a brief illness.

Born in Fitchburg, Mass. 89 years ago, Mrs. Cameron was the widow of George H. Cameron. She is survived by two sons, James of Henderson, N.C. and Lyle of LaHabara, Calif., a daughter Mrs. Nancy C. DeWilde of Lynnfield (formerly of Wilmington), nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Maybelle Marks of Union, Maine and a brother Hazel Ayer of Winchester, Mass.

Elsie Britt

Elsie Webber Britt, 77, of Derry, New Hampshire, formerly of South Main Street, Wilmington died April 16 at Parkland Medical Center in Derry.

She formerly was engaged in running a riding school in Methuen, was a member of the U.S. Trotting Association and widow of Howard Britt. The Britt for many years ran a horse farm at the corner of Eames and Main streets in Wilmington.

Mrs. Britt is survived by children, Elsie Conson of Derry, N.H., Mary Ross of Salem, N.H., Edgar Britt of Clearwater, Fl., Howard Britt Jr. of Lowell and William Britt of Ohio.

Funeral services were held Saturday, April 19 at the Peabody Funeral Home in Derry. Burial followed in Elmwood cemetery, Methuen.

Arthur P. Pilcher

Arthur P. Pilcher of Mark Street, Franklin, N.H. died at Concord Hospital, Concord, N.H., Monday, April 14 from injuries resulting from an automobile accident in Concord earlier in the day.

Mr. Pilcher, 78 years of age, was born in Charlestown, the son of the late Ellen (Landers) and the late John J. Pilcher. He lived in Charlestown during his youth and lived in Medford for many years prior to moving Franklin five years ago.

Prior to retirement, Mr. Pilcher served as a machine operator for General Foods Company for many years.

He was the husband of Mary (Wicham) Pilcher and brother of Thomas C. Pilcher of Wilmington, Mrs. Mary Whalen of Arlington, the late Stephen J. Pilcher, the late John H. Pilcher and the late Mrs. Byna Rivers. He is survived by many nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home on Saturday morning followed by a funeral mass at St. Thomas Church, celebrated by the Rev. Michael Kearney. Interment took place in the family lot, Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

James E. Brooks

James E. (Jimmy) Brooks, 40, vice president of manufacturing for Optronics International Corp. in Chelmsford, died Monday at his Chester Street, Tewksbury home following a long illness.

Active in youth sports in Tewksbury, he was co-founder of the Pop Warner Football League and president and co-founder of the Redmen Football Club.

Born in Tewksbury, the son of Mary E. (Riley) (Brooks) McDonald and William F. Brooks, he was a life-long resident of the town and a graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School where he was active in varsity sports. He later attended Merrimack College and University of Lowell.

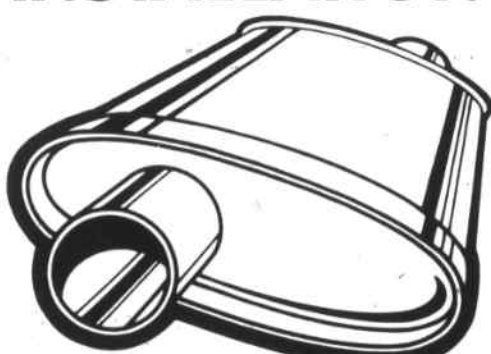

He received the District A Distinguished Service Award from the Mass. Secondary School Athletic Directors Association last March. He was also a member of the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks and a communicant of St. William's Church.

Besides his parents, both of Tewksbury, he is survived by his wife, Pauline (Doucette) Brooks; one daughter, Maryellen Brooks and one son, Brian Brooks, all of Tewksbury; one sister, Mrs. Harry (Martha) Flood of Billerica; also his step-father Robert McDonald of Tewksbury.

The funeral will be held on Friday from the Tewksbury Funeral Home on Friday, with a funeral Mass in St. William's Church at 10 a.m. Visiting hours are on Wednesday from 7 to 9 and Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Redmen Football Club, Scholarship Fund, c/o Robert Aylward, 1 Claire St., Tewksbury.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT ARTICLE 25

presented by
THE WILMINGTON NEIGHBORHOOD ASSOCIATION

The purpose of Article 25 on the warrant for the April town meeting is to see if the town will vote to amend the zoning map and the zoning bylaws of the Town of Wilmington to rezone to Residence 60 (R-60) any residentially zoned parcel of land that currently contains 60,000 or more square feet or do anything in relation thereto.

Question: I own a half-acre parcel of land in North Wilmington. How will this article affect me?

Answer: Not at all. Article 25 only affects parcels that are larger than 60,000 square feet (one and one-half acres).

Question: I own four adjacent 20,000 square-foot parcels of land. Will Article 25 affect me?

Answer: No. The only parcels affected are those parcels that are presently 60,000 square feet or larger on the Town Assessor's map. For instance, four distinct 20,000 square-foot parcels of land will remain four distinct 20,000 square-foot parcels of land, and no zoning change will take effect. However, a single parcel of land that is larger than 60,000 square feet (such as a 12-acre parcel) that is not presently separated into smaller parcels will be affected by Article 25. The most of the 12 acres can be divided into will be eight parcels consisting of 60,000 square feet.

Question: I own two acres of land and five years from now I would like to build houses for my two children. How will this article affect my plans?

Answer: The mechanism for rezoning a parcel of land is already in place. Rezoning can be accomplished at any one of the town meetings that are held during the year.

Question: What do I as a resident of Wilmington have to gain from this article?

Answer: A less densely developed Wilmington will benefit everyone in terms of water quality, educational facilities, traffic and open spaces. We are already starting to feel the effects of dense developments with respect to sewage disposal and traffic congestion. Some folks are starting to believe that the large number of subdivisions in this town is causing Wilmington to lose its small-town character.

Question: Won't larger parcels mean more expensive housing for future generations of Wilmington residents?

Answer: No. For example, the April 13th edition of the Boston Globe contains two ads for houses in Wilmington. One house is on 2.5 acres of land and it sells for $149,000; a comparable home on .75 acres is advertised for $179,000. Both of the houses are already priced far above the income level of people entering the housing market, and lot size does not appear to have a significant effect on price. The simple fact is that location is everything. The location of the house will have more impact on the price of the house than will the size of the parcel. Also, Wilmington's proximity to Boston is causing housing prices to escalate, and the size of the lots will not add to or subtract from the price of a home for future generations.

Verdonck elected bank president

Robert F. Verdonck was elected President and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) at this year's annual meeting of East Boston Savings Bank. A banking professional for over 20 years, Mr. Verdonck most recently served as East Boston's Senior Vice President in charge of operations, branch administration, marketing and security.

Richard P. Belcher, bank president since 1980, will serve as the bank's chairman of the board devoting more time to the bank's investment portfolio.

Prior to joining East Boston Savings Bank in 1984, Mr. Verdonck was vice president at Melrose Savings Bank in charge of retail operations, electronic date processing, branch administration and marketing. His banking experience covers all areas of thrift banking from customer contract and loan collections to development of branch sites, personnel training and long-range strategy.

He formerly managed the Melrose Savings branch in Wilmington, and served as president of the Wilmington Rotary Club.

East Boston Savings Bank had a net income of $3,693,000 on $214,927,000 in assets during their fiscal year ending December 31, 1985. It is one of the most profitable savings banks in Massachusetts.

Wilmington school shorts

Wilmington High School
Playing such popular tunes as In the Mood, Heart of Rock and Roll, and Peter Gunn, the WHS Jazz Rock Ensemble raised the rafters last Thursday at the annual "Evening at the Pops" Concert.

The band, made up of approximately 23 hand-chosen musicians, played to a full house at the West Intermediate School.

"This group has gotten such a reputation that it's not surprising this concert is so well attended," said band director Barbara Mette the next day.

The show raised over $500 which will go toward the summer band camp.

Two other concert dates are on the horizon: the annual spring band concert on May 6 and a concert by the Greenville, Maine high school band May 9 at 7:30 p.m. The latter is the second half of a band exchange and will be open to all Wilmington residents free of charge.

New inductees into the WHS

National Honor Society will be honored on May 7 at a special ceremony. The program, sponsored by the Wilmington Lions Club, will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 6:30 p.m.

WHS students were invited to a special performance of the band AWAY last Friday afternoon. The band members donated their time and talent to help the school's SADD organization raise funds for conferences and the peer tutoring program, said Assistant Principal Jack Lynch.

West Intermediate School

Under the direction of science teachers Tirzah Krey and Dan Spriggs, seventh and eighth graders are presently working on special projects slated to be displayed at the school's Science Fair May 1.

According to Miss Krey, the fair will be open to parents and other residents Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the cafeteria. During that same afternoon, students will explain their projects to fellow classmates.

Such timely and interesting projects as the composition of Halley's Comet, air pollution, smoking and cancer, and the wine-making process are expected to be on display. Students also did survey work on dreams, genetics, and other subjects and will have results available.

Awards in each grade will be presented for best design poster, 3-D model, and experiment. Also honored will be top winners and those receiving honorable mention.

The purpose of the fair, said Miss Krey, is not only to provide a learning experience for students but to afford an opportunity to share that knowledge with others. Right now "the interest is high," she added.

North Intermediate School

Thirty-two students from grades seven and eight were feted by their teachers on April 9 at the Sheraton Rolling Green in Andover as a thank-you for their hard work throughout the year. The students were chosen from among their peers for their sincerity, cooperation, honesty, and willingness to work and were awarded citizenship certificates by the 23 staff members who attended the dinner.

The successful program, under the direction of Spanish instructor Bob Young, has been ongoing for a number of years. According to Acting Principal Jim Jordan, the school staff foots the bill for both the dinner and the evening's entertainment - a disc jockey and Name That Tune contest - and transports the students from the school and back to their homes.

Those students attending the dinner were Leasa Amidon, Richard Barletta, Robert Caruso, Edward Curtin, Geniene DiPietro, Karen Feeney, Mary Fisher, Tara Fasulo, Julie Gillespie, Erminio Grasso, Jacqueline Gray, Andrew Jamerson, Stacey Kane, Kristen McCarthy, Anna O'Donoghue, Michael Rubino, and Maria Torre. Also Triana Blowers, Ryan Churchill, Andrea Ducey, Steven Edmonds, Katie Funn, William Finnerty, Kris Gottlander, Lee Grasso, Kathleen Hersom, James Kane, Jean MacKinnon, John Molloy, April Murray, Joseph Toto, Michele Zaya.

Avco will play host to 16 members of the school's computer club and teacher Alan Chassey in early May, thanks to the efforts of Avco employee Jim Palman.

During their visit, students will observe the product line and computer system and learn how people communicate. They will also view a film and take part in a question and answer period.

NOTE: Any administrators, teachers, parents, or PAC members of district schools who wish to have events or notices included in this column should forward the information to the Crier office by Monday afternoons, in care of Arlene Surprenant. This column will run weekly, space permitting.

"Away" is their name, and their theme is "no drugs". The band played in concert at Wilmington High School on Friday, in a rally run by the Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD).

AN OPEN LETTER TO WILMINGTON VOTERS

In view of the substantial increase in developments throughout our town, we urge you to join with us now in an effort to SAVE OUR NEIGHBORHOODS.

Several neighborhoods will be affected if we pass ARTICLE 28. This article proposes to rezone 62 acres of land stretching from Hopkins Street to the Shawsheen River from 60,000 square foot lots to 20,000 square foot lots. If approved, it could result in ONE OF THE LARGER SUBDIVISIONS IN TOWN plus:

We DO NOT object to the present zoning (R-60) which will still allow the owner to develop his property in a manner consistent with the surrounding neighborhood.

WE DO OBJECT TO REZONING WHICH INFRINGES ON OUR RIGHTS AND NEGATIVELY IMPACTS OUR NEIGHBORHOODS, OUR TOWN, AND OUR QUALITY OF LIFE.

Once again, we the taxpayers will have to foot the bill for this excessive growth.

PLEASE VOTE NO ON ARTICLE 28

Your vote is vital. If you don't make the effort today, we'll ALL have to live with the results tomorrow.

We would like to acknowledge the foresight of the Wilmington Planning Board in disapproving Article 28.

Sincerely,

*OVERCROWDED CONDITIONS AT THE SHAWSHEEN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, conditions which will negatively impact the quality of our children's education.

*INCREASED TRAFFIC CONGESTION in an area unable to safely handle the present traffic flow.

*AGGRAVATED WATER DRAINAGE and SEPTIC PROBLEMS

*The need for ADDITIONAL TOWN SERVICES such as police, fire, schools, and public works.

*The opening of two dead end streets which will DIVERT HEAVY TRAFFIC THROUGH RESIDENTIAL NEIGHBORHOODS.

*An ENVIRONMENTAL THREAT to the Shawsheen River Watershed.

Jazz band

The Wilmington High School Jazz Rock Ensemble played in a pops concert at the West Intermediate School last week. The concert raised over $500 for band camp expenses.

25 years ago

The April 27, 1961 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Selectmen voted unanimously to advise the U.S. Post Office Department that they preferred a site near the Wilmington fire station for the newly proposed post office rather than alternate site at Wilmington Plaza.

The Youth Canteen opened at its new location on Main Street, formerly the Shamrock Drive-in. The building was being used, by the youth group, courtesy of the owner, Harold Foley.

J.W. Greer, in public recognition of Industry Day in Massachusetts, declared by Governor Volpe, would hold an open house for the people of Wilmington at the Greer plant on lower main Street where the company occupied 100,000 square feet and employed 124 people.

The Rev. Richard Harding, pastor of the United Methodist Church accepted a call to the Wesley Methodist Church in Amherst.

James Corum of Salem Street was scheduled to exhibit his Symbolic Lazer Computer at the Mass.

Institute of Technology in the Boston Globe Science Fair.

A tree would be planted on the common by Campfire Girls commemorating the 50th birthday of Campfire. The tree, a spruce or something similar, about four feet tall would be planted on the south side of the common. Foster Balser of Middlesex Avenue was in charge of the operation.

A.E. Allgrove Nursery was offering juniper and cypress evergreens and rhododendrons from $3.95 to $5.95.

The committee to organize a League of Women Voters in Wilmington was pictured, including Mrs. Philip Andrews, Mrs. Wayne Neavar, Mrs. Harold Fishwick, Mrs. Cufis Ward, Mrs. Henry Sullivan, Mrs. Donald Razy and Mrs. Peter Stratos.

John Bowen of Main Street and Richard Allard of Glen Road for the third time, navigated the Ipswich River in a canoe from the Canal to the sea.

Stevens Farm Dairy was offering Italian subs, all meat and cheese for 55 cents or American subs for 40 cents.

Miceli secures funds for Tech

The Shawsheen Regional Technical School District, particularly Tewksbury and Wilmington will save more than a quarter of a million dollars in State aid thanks to legislative action by State Representative James R. Miceli (D-Wilmington, Tewksbury).

Miceli succeeded in amending the Regional School District funding section of the fiscal 1987 State Budget to include $274,708 for the Shawsheen communities.

The Miceli amendment was the largest single vocational aid reimbursement in the state.

"This amendment was absolutely necessary to prevent the Shawsheen communities from losing that $274,708," Miceli, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, has stated.

Miceli said the State funding contained in the amendment "is earmarked exclusively to reduce assessments to the member towns of the Shawsheen District for the costs of providing education services to students. It is direct dollar savings for the local communities."

Nutrition after 50 program at Regional Health Center

With all the recent publicity concerning calcium and osteoporosis, the need to decrease dietary cholesterol, and the importance of a high fiber diet; you may feel confused as to what a healthy diet really is.

To help you better understand these nutritional concerns, the Regional Health Center in Wilmington will offer "Nutrition After 50," the fifth program of the "Feeling Fine after 50" series on Wed., May 21 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The program which will be presented by Elvira A. Johnson, R.D., M.S., nutrition services coordinator, will focus on the special dietary concerns and nutritional needs for older adults, as well as the role of calcium in preventing osteoporosis. A nutrition education film "Help Yourself to Better Health," will also be presented and the program will conclude with a question and answer period. Handouts will be available. A continental brunch will be served.

Please call the Community Health Education Department at 657-3910, ext. 567, to register.

The Regional Health center in Wilmington is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

It is coming on town meeting time in Wilmington and I would like to say to the silent majority that special interest groups are banding together to push through articles that satisfy their own needs but do not consider the people of the town as a whole.

The selectmen, school committee, finance committee, planning board, conservation authority and board of appeals have done a good job of running our town, but the people are the ones who dictate their policy.

The permanent building committee had a plan for the high school additions which was defeated. Later a plan with less structure was passed but we lost the full house and other so called frills but before it is over because of the delay the cost will be greater than the original plan.

We had numerous condo plans defeated because of traffic etc. Well, see how much traffic is around on a Sunday from our residents.

During the 50's and 60's the people who lived here and wanted their families to grow up in Wilmington never questioned the people moving here from the city. Now people who have moved here in the last 10-15 years think this town is their own personal playground. Wilmington kids cannot even afford to live here. They want 60,000 foot lots, take land by eminent domain, don't add on to my street, no multiple housing, and of course if someone has a chance to make a few bucks after working the land for 50 years, stop his subdivision.

We have one individual in town who was lucky enough to buy a town owned piece of property and who is very vociferous about letting someone else develop their property because it is in his neighborhood. We have another who has lived here for a short time who thinks the town is personally his.

With all the fuss about this land situation the town has been overwhelmed with plans for subdivisions. Basically we have excellent builders in town and everything was going fine, now everyone is just submitting plans so they may be on file. If the articles that makes all property over a certain size now become 60,000 foot lots there will be many families who cannot keep their kids here in Wilmington. If a man has saved a piece of property for his kids it may have to be subdivided so that there will not be enough for more than one child.

Let's try to go back to a live and let live situation before it is too late.

Sincerely,

Larry Cushing

P.S. This does not include the 50 people who have stopped or slowed down the Fourth of July celebration for about 10,000 or more Wilmington residents.

Dear Larz:

Article No. 29 of the upcoming Tewksbury town meeting concerns itself with the rezoning of a 79 acre parcel of town owned land. The purpose of the article is to rezone this property from Heavy Industry to General Residence and farm. The parcel is located on Poplar Street near the Wilmington-Tewksbury Elks Lodge and contains five town wells, pumping station and numerous monitor wells. In addition, the primary use of the abutting developed property is single family residences.

The access to the property is very limited and is by (1) right of way (1) narrow dirt road and (1) paved country lane (Poplar Street). With water being "THE" issue of the 1980's for Tewksbury, we must do everything in our power to protect our existing water supply while searching out and developing future supplies. To rezone this property it will take a two-thirds vote of the citizens of town meeting.

Article No. 29 should be viewed as a valuable rezoning article for the citizens and the future of the community. Please plan to attend town meeting and voice your opinion

Respectfully,

where little undeveloped land still exists in town and where few elderly residents would choose to live, would do a disservice to those who need nursing care. Would any of us choose to live in a business district?

Article 26 was submitted by neighbors who were angered by my company's proposal to build a nursing home on Hillside Way. We have responded by looking for other appropriate and more acceptable sites in town and are pursuing them vigorously.

Ironically, if Article 26 is passed by Town Meeting, it will prohibit us from developing a nursing home on any site in Wilmington, other than our Hillside Way site, that is located in a residential district. We sincerely hope this is not the outcome.

Signed,

Jonathan G. Truslow

TAX-SHIFTING

LOOPHOLE CLOSED

For many years parents have saved for a child's education by putting money or other interest-bearing assets in the youngster's name - permanently or for a short time - so that earnings were taxed at the child's lower rate. The Clifford Trust was most popular; then the Clifford Trust was favored because it enabled the parent to regain ownership of the capital.

These tax-shifting loopholes may be closed, or at least curtailed, when tax reform takes full effect. They eliminate the tax advantages of custodial accounts set up for children under age 14 and of Clifford Trusts for children of any age. Beneficial tax statement will continue, however, if the money is given by anyone other than a parent (an uncle, for example.) Old Clifford Trusts are protected, but to keep new trusts from slipping under the wire, the tax writers promoted the idea of making the ban retroactive to September 25, 1985.

How to save for Junior's college? Some irrevocable trusts may be available. Early saving may still be worthwhile, at any tax rate.

Talk it over with your accountant, or with

Cleaning up
"The Drop"

Wilmington town employees have been working to clean up the area at Silver Lake known as "The Drop." The town bought the lakefront property last year after a Salem firm proposed to build an office building. The lot was once the site of Walter Hale's ice house. The ditch crossing the property was dug in Colonial times, for the purpose of flooding a mill pond which was on Lubbers Brook.

St. William's census closing

The unique mail census conducted by St. William's Church in Tewksbury is coming to a conclusion. The Fr. George Croft, O.M.I., pastor of St. William's reports that the results of the "Mail-It" program have been excellent and that many area Catholics have returned their completed census cards to the church.

All Catholic families, active or inactive, who received a census kit in the mail are urged to return their census cards within the next few days. Additional census cards have been made available at the church rectory for those who did not get a kit in the mail.

The parish is about to enter into the final phase of the census which involves the counting and recording of the census cards. The information obtained from the cards will serve as a basis for future parish planning and development.

Redmen crunch Middies

The Tewksbury High School girls track team romped to its' second straight win in the MVC with a 104-32 drubbing of Dracut. Taking first in all but three of the events, the TMHS girls achieved 28 personal best performances.

In the opening running event, team captain Peggy Forsyth set the tone for the day by striding to an impressive 12:42 in the two mile run. Teammate Chrissy Frotten took the cue and cut nearly 30 seconds of her personal best time to take second place.

As the two mile run was being run, some impressive things were happening in the field events. Sandy Keon scored a double win, tossing the javelin 89'10" and the discus 78'4", while all the other TMHS discus and javelin throwers were achieving their personal best throws. Renee Juchnevics got the jav to fly 86'8" to place third, and Colleen Kiely grabbed a third in the discus.

Kristin Conley and Kerry Silk were the other field event winners in the triple jump and the long jump respectively.

Back on the running track, Amy DiGiorgio got back into good form and won the hurdles in 17.6 seconds, followed closely by Claire Tremblay. Chris Blake and Justine Short grabbed one-two in the 100 meter dash. Paula Torode strode away from all competition in the mile to win that event easily.

The TMHS 440 relay team is off to a good start this season, their time less than a second away from the school record. Against Dracut, the exchanges went pretty well between Jill Hallisey, Renee Juchnevics, Lisa Thayer and Kellie Lightfoot, and Kellie charged home well ahead of her Dracut opponent.

Tewksbury dominated the 400. The highly talented Kerry Silk blazed to a 63.2 first place, and she was followed closely by strong running teammate Chris Blake in 64.7. Mary Horgan also ran well to grab third place.

Tricia Censullo continued her winning ways in the 300 meter low hurdles, with Kristin Conley and Katie Frotten following her across the line for second and third.

Krissie Connor got out to a strong lead in the 880 and held on to win in the very good time of 2:35.4. In that same race, three freshmen on the team, Lisa O'Neil, Karen Morel and Carolyn Masters, running the half mile for the first time, turned in very impressive performances, with O'Neil and Morel finishing second and third behind Krissie.

Kellie Lightfoot and the mile relay team finished out the TMHS scoring. Kellie ran hard for a second place in the 220. The mile relay team of Kerry Silk, Rachel O'Flaherty, Amy DiGiorgio and Justine Short won their race against the only other mile relay team on the track - a second Tewksbury team, Dracut having chosen not to compete.

With the two strong victories over Lawrence and Dracut these past two weeks, the TMHS girls now sit on top of the Small School division in the Merrimack Valley Conference. Tougher contests lie ahead however, so they know they will have to continue building on what they have accomplished so far.

This week Tewksbury faces a team from Hudson Catholic, a non-conference opponent that should prove to be interesting. The meet begins at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the TMHS track.

Pat hangs tough

Wilmington High School sophomore hurler Pat Nally hung tough in last week's exciting 8-7 Wildcat victory over Greater Lawrence at the North Intermediate School Field. Nally and his mates rallied in the bottom of the seventh inning to score the victory.

Watching the wheels

Wildcat coach Dick Scanlon sets the wheels in motion as senior catcher Chris Parr looks on from the end of the bench during Wilmington's win over Greater Lawrence last week.

Wilmington Youth Soccer

Boys top Reading, 4-1

The Wilmington boys under 14 traveling team opened the spring season with one win and one loss, in its first two games. The first game was a 4-1 win over Reading. Goals were scored by Jerry Driscoll, Andrew Parr and Ryan Churchill (two). Mark Bobek was outstanding in goal for the winners.

Strong games were turned in by fullbacks Brian Gillespie and Brian McDonald. Halfbacks Matt McManus and Eric Creeth played outstanding two way games as well. Forward George Driscoll was also a strong force throughout the game.

The second game was a tough 1-0 loss to Concord. Wilmington dominated play throughout most of the game, only to have Concord win on a late goal.

Redmen roll, 112-33

The Tewksbury High School boys' varsity track and field team found itself right back in the thick of the MVC Small School championship race this past week, as the Redmen win vs Dracut, 112-33, coupled with Wilmington's win over Lawrence, left the Tewksbury squad one game behind the division leaders Methuen. Today, the Redmen host Hudson Catholic in a 9:30 a.m. meet, with another non-conference meet on Monday, April 28 vs Central Catholic at 3:30 p.m. at the Tewksbury High track and field facility.

Tewksbury 112 Dracut 33

Dracut, building for the future with many freshmen and sophomores comprising a majority of their team, ran into a senior-junior team Wednesday, as Tewksbury won all but two events and defeated Dracut, 112-33.

Co-captain Buddy MacAllister, along with senior teammate Richie Lapham, each won two events and took third in another to lead the Redmen. MacAllister won the triple jump 39'23/4", and the 110 meter high hurdles, 16.4, while finishing third in the long jump.

Lapham won both sprints, the 100 meters in 11.6 seconds and the 220 yard run, 23.5, along with a third place in the javelin. Other first place finishes came from juniors Kenn Coviello in the long jump, 19'3", Tim Boudreau in the high jump, 5'8", Tim McCaffery with a victory in the mile 4:52.0, Eric Meininghaus in the 330 yard low hurdles, 42.0 and Robbie Busch in the day's outstanding performance, a 9:56.8 mile run, the first sub 10 minute two mile by a Tewksbury athlete since the days of Jim Stronach and Mike Hurton.

Senior Doug Noyes, who may be the conferences' best discus thrower, won his specialty with a toss of 133'13/4". Senior Chris McHardy came through with a 144'9 1/2" win in the javelin, while senior co-captain Mark Christoffels stepped up from the sprints to nab a win in the 440 yard run with a 56.3 time. Senior Ed Piscopo stayed unbeaten in the 880 yard run with an easy 2:04 win.

Brian Aylward, David French, Scott Fay and Tim Boudreau won the 440 yard relay, and the team of Tim McCaffery, David French,

TMHS girls score three wins

In the opening week's of competition, the TMHS tennis girls picked up three strong wins against Methuen, Lawrence and Keith Catholic. Although losing to Chelmsford and Haverhill, the tedmen played well, forcing two matches from each town into three sets.

First singles player Sheri Strong is off to her best start at Tewksbury with a 3-2 record. Matching her best record is Karen Hennessey playing at third singles. Tewksbury's overall record is 3-3.

Bay State Games

Massachusetts' reputation as a soccer powerhouse will be greatly evident as the 1986 Bay State Games regional qualifying season gets underway. The Bay State Games soccer committee is readying fields across the state in anticipation of nearly 2,500 players who are expected to turn out for the regional tryouts over the next six weeks.

"The 1986 Bay State Games soccer competition will really be a showcase of the best Massachusetts talent," said Kevin Cummings, Sports Coordinator for the Games. "For the first time in our four year history, there are no scheduling conflicts with select team tournaments and other All-Star competitions. We'll definitely be seeing the top Massachusetts players coming out for the Bay State Games."

Each of the Bay State Games six regions will choose a representative team in each of the following divisions: Boys Scholastic, Girls Scholastic, Men's Open and Women's Open. These teams will advance to the Finals, July 11-13 in Boston. All athletes must be pre-registered to attend a regional qualifier. Entry booklets are available from all high school and college athletic directors and at every Bank of Boston location throughout the state. Entry forms must be received in the Bay State Games office prior to the date of a tryout.

Wilmington Youth Soccer highlights

Boys under 16

An undermanned Wilmington team went down to defeat to a very strong Billerica team, 7-0 in Wilmington Youth Soccer League action last week. Wilmington, led by Tim Penney and goalie Steven Killilea, held tough through the first half trailing 2-0. However, the size and number of Billerica took over and overpowered Wilmington, scoring five goals in the second half.

Girls under 14

The two girls under 14 teams met for the first time this year, with Wilmington 1 defeating Wilmington II, 6-0. The goals were scored by Andrea Ducey (three), Cara Scalesse, Sarah Soule, and Erin McKenna. The scorers were supported by good play by Lori Wheeler, Ann Marie Barletta, Amy Littlewood and Suzy Walsh.

Boys under 12

The team opened the season in North Reading in an aggressive way. The sharp passing of Scott Audette and Matt Lewis set up two goals by Mike King and single tallies by Mark Zambardi and David Dellascio. Fullback Greg Cardillo did outstanding work, keeping pressure off goalies Steve Burns and Mike King. The final score was Wilmington 4, North Reading 2.

After a scoreless first half, thanks mostly to the keen defensive work of David Morgardo and Noel Baratta and the goaltending of Jason Early, Melrose opened the flood gates. Despite the aggressive all out play of Frankie Barletta, Mike Peterson and Beau Birmingham, Melrose shutout Wilmington while scoring five times.

Girls under 12

The girls team lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to a strong North Reading team. The Wilmington girls played a very strong defense and kept the more experienced North Reading team from scoring until late in the game with only minutes to go. Strong games were turned in by fullbacks Tina Kelly, Tobey Kenney, stopper Anjean Murphy and halfbacks Tara Landers and Joy Michaud.

Jennifer Sbrano played an exceptional game in her first attempt at goaltending. She made countless saves, and at times frustrated the North Reading girls. The whole team is to be commended, particularly since it is comprised mostly of newcomers to the very competitive traveling team concept of play.

The shorthanded Wilmington team lost a hard played 3-1 game to the Billerica II team. Despite the absence of five good players, the

When the Wilmington Minutemen set off at 2 a.m. on April 19 for their annual march to Concord (above), there are only a few people around to watch. But though the crowd is small, they are dedicated. This was the consecutive sixth year that Chris Merrey (right) and crew (below) waited in front of the post office for the Minutemen to march by, and this year, they came equipped with balloons and costumes. The Minuteman at left is Mike Curley.

Library's resources expanding

When funding was approved at last year's town meeting, Wilmington Memorial Library became the 13th member of the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium. Since that time, three more libraries have joined, with the Ipswich becoming the 16th member last week. With each new participant, Wilmington's access to resources expands.

Librarians today realize that it is impossible to provide comprehensive collections in a single library. Computerized resource sharing allows each local library to provide maximum availability of materials at a minimum cost.

In the past seven months, Wilmington Memorial Library's staff has entered approximately 14,000 titles into the MVLC data base. The project continues to progress and the library expects to be on line in the spring of 1987 when approximately 70 percent of the collection will have been entered.

Wilmington Police News

A husband and wife were arrested Sunday night by narcotic detectives after a search warrant was served at their home at 9 Burnap St., Wilmington.

Roy E. MacKenzie, 42, and Lois MacKenzie were both charged with possession of and trafficking in a class B substance believed to be cocaine. The arrests culminated an extensive investigation by Sgt. George Shepard and Insp. Mark Jepson under the direction of Chief Bobby Stewart.

Police seized 22 grams of cocaine and $1400 in cash at the time of the arrests.

Arresting officers were Sgt. Shepard, Insp. Jepson, Mike McKenna, William Gable and Mike Celata. Both Mackenzies were later bailed for a Monday court appearance. The case was continued to May 15.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, Officers Steven LaRivee and Hancock arrested four local young people on a variety of charges. Mark Medbery, 18, 27 Beacon Street was charged with underage possession of alcohol and allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his motor vehicle. Raymond Wilhelm, 17, and Martin Wilhelm, 18, both of 2 Brentwood Avenue were both charged with underage possession of alcohol. A 15 year old juvenile was charged with operating a motor vehicle unlicensed and under age possession of alcohol. All were bailed for court next Thursday.

At 1:30 a.m. Saturday, a Lowell man was charged with two counts of breaking and entering in the nighttime by Officer Steven LaRivee. The man was caught smashing in the door to DeMoulas Market. He was also charged with breaking into the Hess Station across the street. Gary St. Marie, 31, of 105 Butterfield St., Lowell was arrested after a witness had notified police of the incident at the Hess station.

By chance, one of the witnesses was a youth who is a member of the police Explorers post which has recently been formed by the police department. St. Marie was bailed for an appearance in Woburn Court, Tuesday April 22. Case was continued to May 15.

James Donahue, 24 of 20 Pinedale Avenue, Tewksbury was arrested early Monday morning by Officer Pat King on the basis of a Lawrence warrant issued for possession of burglarious tools and breaking and entering.

Saturday night Officer Peterson arrested a Lawrence man, Daniel Davidson of Kingston Street by virtue of a Georgetown warrant. He was bailed for an appearance in Haverhill Court.

During the week ending April 22, police responded to nine accidents, one fire, 38 alarms, made 13 arrests and five protective custody detentions.

Six disturbances were investigated along with five domestic problems and four break and entries. Five larcenies were reported and medical assistance was given twice. Nine incidents of suspicious activity were logged along with three trespassing complaints, eight trailbike complaints, four complaints involving traffic and one liquor related complaint.

Two alleged sex crimes and four incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Wilmington Senior Topics

Town Meeting Saturday

The annual Town Meeting will be held at the Shriners Auditorium Saturday, April 26. Many articles will be placed on the floor by the moderator for approval or rejection. These articles will effect all of us in some way. If there is a particular article that is of interest to you, don't complain when the vote is not what you wanted, if you could not take the time to attend the meeting.

One article of interest to all the elderly is the Council on Aging budget. As this budget is important to the Council on Aging in meeting the needs of all of us, we need you to vote yes for the budget. See you at the town meeting.

Learn a craft

To see how many seniors would like to learn the following crafts - quilting, oil painting, ceramics, light woodworking, sewing, embroidery, crocheting, knitting or bridge, we will have a sign-up sheet available at the Center. You may call your selection of any one or all of the programs. Call 657-7595 or 658-2258.

Exercise programs

There are many exercise programs under the Council of Aging. To help seniors stay physically fit. This month's Medical Journal has verified the fact that exercise is the most important thing we can do to keep ourselves healthy. Our exercise class is taught under a professional therapist. Our therapeutic dance class is taught by a professional dance instructor. The walk program is directed by a person well versed in the proper way to prepare and carry out long walks. Join one of all of the programs and you will feel better about yourself and have a new interest in your life.

Sweetheart needs help

We have received a call from Sweetheart Plastics Co. They are in need of seniors who will be able to give them about three weeks to inspect articles of an order they have received. It is very light sit-down work. You may select your own hours and days. The pay is between $5-$5.50 an hour. Sweetheart has been very good to seniors so any senior who feels they can assist is urged to call Jack Cushing or Lee McKenna at 658-9100.

Homecare services

To qualify for the sliding fee homecare services under Minuteman Home care, eligibility levels have been raised through the legislature. For a single person the income cannot exceed $12,371 and for a couple it cannot exceed $17,524. A requirement attached to these increased levels is that you will have to be a frail elderly. Homemaking services are also available without regard to income through Protective Services. For more information on either of these services call the Center, 657-7595 or 658-2258.

Messages from Woburn's wayside pulpits

BY JIM ROUILLARD

There is a pulpit in Woburn which never stands empty.

Like pheasant, its words come under glass - and as for getting the message, in this particular instance, motorists may be likelier than pedestrians to go to Hell in a bucket seat.

For it is a wayside pulpit, transmitting the briefest of sermons to passersby, in morning sun and afternoon shade, year-round, day in and night out.

The wayside pulpits have inspired and encouraged millions world-wide - and even saved at least one life.

Unobtrusive messengers by street or sidewalk, in metropolitan, rural and suburban settings, they may be seen among the brick and concrete of large cities or on a patch of country lawn.

They have been as near as Wakefield, as distant as Japan and the Union of South Africa.

Brainchildren of a Brighton minister, their pithy, thoughtful sayings are supplied by the North American Unitarian Universalist Association (UUA), to a variety of churches of many different faiths. In their hey-day they appeared in an estimated 500 cities on four continents.

They still reach about 125 subscribing churches, synagogues and even a private home in Maine. Among their still-significant audience must be counted attentive residents of Woburn and surrounding communities.

It was the wayside pulpit outside Woburn's Unitarian Church at One Pleasant Street, in fact, which provided the curiosity and impetus for this story. And though it is situated at an intersection (Main, Winn and Pleasant streets) which is described by that church's Olive Woods Shaw as so hazardous she wonders how many motorists see the pulpit, the word does get out.

"One young woman was so impressed with a message that she wanted to buy the poster it was printed on," said Mrs. Shaw, chairperson of the church for the past 14 years.

A fourth-generation resident of her Woburn home, Mrs. Shaw indicated the wayside pulpits may quietly state the wisdom of ancient Chinese philosophers or the writings of current theologians and writers.

A gently humorous, former third-grade teacher at the Reeves School in Woburn's west end, Mrs. Shaw described herself as "79 and proud of it." She was uncertain as to where and how the wayside pulpits began, though she implied she remembers them from the mists of time past.

She was, however, able to supply a reference to Boston's UUA headquarters. Bill Gagnon, managing editor of the UUA publication UU World, and current editor of the bi-weekly pulpit messages, soon provided a mine of information and enlightened wit on the topic of the wayside pulpits.

Though the precise time of their origin is uncertain, the urbane and pleasant Gagnon said that in about 1919 the Rev. Henry Hallam Sanderson, a Unitarian minister in Brighton, had noticed that "bulletin boards outside churches were, in his words, 'ineffectual, because they were either kept empty or held notices which had outlived their usefulness.'"

Sanderson began putting a message each Sunday night on the bulletin board of his church, according to Gagnon, and immediately found that hundreds of people stopped to read it. "Then it occurred to me," Sanderson said, "that the idea might have wider usefulness. One hundred preachers agreed to cooperate by erecting bulletin boards of the same size and proportion and by sharing the expense of having the messages printed.

"Thus was the Wayside Pulpit conceived and birthed," according to UU World.

Within five years of that inception, a 1924 newspaper story noted that Sanderson preached all day and all night, 365 days a year, kept his sermons short and his congregation standing - and passed no collection plate - all of which probably accounted for the phenomenal size of his flock: three million persons a week.

Sanderson had, by then, compiled evidence which convinced him that his writings were indeed reaching the enormous audience.

"To get some idea of how many people were actually reading them," Sanderson said, "we checked up by stationing men to count pedestrians who stopped to read. The result was a pretty reliable estimate that the

A cornucopia of ideas

FM TALK: A cornucopia of thoughts crossed our far-flung correspondent's mind this week. The following are just a few of them:

I've come to the conclusion that banks - not all banks, mind you, just the big "chain" banks you see advertised on tv a lot - are the most difficult institutions in the world to deal with. Forget city hall. For the registry. Forget the IRS. It's those darn, big money institutions that have really lost touch with the people whom they do business with.

Here's an example of just how they "lose touch" - at the behest of a good friend, who used to manage a branch of one of those chain banks, I took my money out of one of those nice, cozy local banks, the kind that's like the corner drug store where everybody knows you by your first name and if you ever have a problem the solution is never far away, and put it in his branch bank. It was the biggest mistake of my life. If they are not "accidentally" depositing an extra thousand dollars in my savings account (which I didn't get to keep, by the way, and it only resulted in an immense dose of confusion in my life until they straightened the matter out), they are doing things like penalizing me ten percent of my interest because I failed to confirm my social security number.

Give me a break! If a person sees you on a regular basis, takes your money and holds it for you, they tend to get to know you fairly well. If there's a problem confirming your social security number, they should be able to ameliorate the situation right there and then, not allow the system to work against the

FIRST... We'll inspect your lawn and provide a complete written analysis.

NEXT... With your permission, we'll return to your home and make timely product applications - each designed to meet the needs of your lawn at that time of year. In other words, we'll give your lawn what it needs - when it needs it. You no longer have to be concerned with which lawn care products to buy and then finding the time to apply them.

BEST OF ALL... We'll give you a great-looking lawn and keep it looking great - at a price competitive with what you've been paying to do it yourself!

ON YOUR FEET Arthritis

Arthritis in the feet takes many forms. The most common of which are Rheumatoid Arthritis (R.A.), Degenerative Joint Disease (D.J.D.); arthritis, due to overuse or damage and Gout Arthritis. Arthritis generally refers to pain and swelling of the tissues that surround the joint and not necessarily due to pain from bone in the joint.

The most common forms of arthritis are R.A. and D.J.D but the most painful form is probably Gout. Primary treatment of any of these forms of arthritis are usually a combination of medicine and therapy. In addition, the patient is usually referred to a general physician or arthritis specialist (Rheumatologist) for additional treatment. Long term treatment may involve surgical care, but prompt recognition and early treatment may avert the need for such care.

Massbank for Savings Subscription and Community Offering Over-Subscribed

Massbank for Savings has announced that its subscription and community offerings for shares of its Common Stock to be issued in its conversion from mutual to stock form, expired on April 17. The Bank offered 3,000,000 shares of its Common Stock at a maximum subscription price of $17.25 per share, based on a valuation from its independent appraiser.

The bank is still processing order forms received in the offerings. Based upon orders processed to date, the offerings have been over-subscribed. The bank will be applying the allocation procedure provided in the Plan of Conversion to allocate the available shares among subscribers. The over-subscription allocation procedure is expected to take three to four weeks.

The bank is a Massachusetts-chartered mutual savings bank organized in 1874 and headquartered in Reading.

benefit of the customer.

If I still had my money in the corner neighborhood bank, this sort of confusion would never happen. The manager would have gotten on the horn and said, "Hey, Dan, your social security number needs to be confirmed," and that would be that. But when you deal with big, ugly institutions, they do things that make you angry. They say, well, this guy didn't confirm his social security number, so let's penalize him ten percent of his interest in his savings account. And then they don't tell you this unless you do something as I did this week — transfer the money into a different account. Then you find out what they've done.

And you have to go through more agonizing confusion to get it straightened out. Sometimes I wish I'd left my money in the corner bank. Better yet, I wish the world was still like it was a hundred years ago. Then I could keep my money hidden in the trunk of a tree in my back yard.

Moving on: So you want to start your own business, huh? Well, a great and good buddy of ours, Mike Pottle, who used to be an executive with one of those big, ugly bank institutions, in fact, recently departed from the scene and has ventured into his own business. He has some pretty interesting advice for those of you who might be thinking of starting up your own company.

"Forget credit," he states emphatically. "No bank wants to know you."

The reason, he says, is because you have no experience owning your own business, no "track record." Sounds like the old song and dance about getting a job. You have no experience, a prospective employer will tell you. So where do you get the experience if you won't hire me? You tell him.

"And forget friends!" Mike adds. "Everyone is afraid you'll ask for a loan. Or worse, to invest!"

Your friends won't be the only folks you'll see scattering in the opposite direction once you've announced that you've started your own business venture, says

Mike. "Forget family! They don't want the 'family name' used for fear of guilt by association. They'll deny they know you."

Mike has recently gone into the financial services business. His company is called Focus Financial Services, Inc., and he has offices in Plymouth and Salem. Mike's venture is turning out to be very successful, a one in a hundred shot these days. He also has something to say about what happens when you suddenly find yourself riding high in your new business.

Rotary road race on Sunday

The Reading Rotary Club will hold its annual Road Race in Reading on Sunday, April 27 and will once again feature a 10k road race and a 1½ mile fun run. The race has become one of the most popular and features one of the largest turnouts of any road race run in the greater Boston area.

Once again Rotarian Allan Bissett will be the director of the race and as always, everything is planned to the finest detail to insure a well run and enjoyable race. A majority of the membership of the Reading club will also be on hand that day to aid and assist competitors before, during and after the race. Everything will be handled in a first class fashion.

The race will be limited to the first 600 runners who register and it is advised that pre-registration through the mail is the best way to guarantee a slot. BayBank Middlesex and TASC (The Analytic Sciences Corporation) will be the major sponsors of the race. Tee shirts will be presented to the first 400 who register and runner hats will be presented to the next 200 participants.

As always the race will begin at the Reading YMCA, just to the rear of Reading Memorial High School, and will wind its way through Reading's backroads before ending up back at the "Y." The race will feature such things as water stations, police traffic control, split times and medical assistance.

There will be a number of categories and trophies to match in both the male and female areas as well as for the young and the old. No one has been left out. If a person enjoys running, there is a category in the Reading Rotary Road Race. The specific details of the race are as follows:

—There is a $5 or $2 (fun run) registration fee and all proceeds will go to the Reading Scholarship Fund Inc.

—Categories: 10k Race: 19 and under; 20 to 29; 30 to 39; 40 and over.

—10k Race: Limit 600 Runners — Starting time is 10:30 a.m. — Last minute registration and number pick-up (if needed) at 9:30 a.m. — Trophies: 1st, 2nd, 3rd — Men's & Women's — Medals: 1st, 2nd, 3rd in four age divisions — $5 entry fee before April 23, $6 post entry. T-shirts for first 400 entries and special runner hats for the next 200 entries. Runner's number will be mailed back prior to race day. Include business size SASE with application.

—½ mile Fun Run: 11 and under; 12 and over.

—½ mile Fun Run: Starting time 9:30 a.m. — last minute registration and number pick-up (if needed) at 9 a.m. — Trophies: 1st place Men's & Women's in two age divisions — Medals: 2nd and 3rd place Men's & Women's in two age divisions — pre and post entry fee $2 (painter's hats given to all Fun Run registered runners) — runner's numbers will be mailed back prior to race day. Include business size SASE with application.

—Water stations — police traffic control — split times — medical assistance — well marked course — refreshments — YMCA facilities available — NEAC sanctioned event (TAC number not required to participate in this event) — electronic finish line clock and results — certificates to all finishers — free drawing for merchandise prizes and gift certificates after race — computerized results.

—Optional — collect and turn in, before April 27, a minimum of $10 in sponsor money and pay no entry fee — mail it to PO Box 61, Reading or leave it at Johnson True Value Hardware, 10 Haven St., Reading. The person turning in the most sponsor money will win a free dinner for four at Harrow's Restaurant.

—For more information and entry forms call Allan Bissett at 944-1141 or Dave Hurley at 944-7820; or write Reading Rotary Club, P.O. Box 61, Reading, MA 01867.

—Directions to race: From 128 (I-95) take Rt. 28 Exit North, go through Reading center and past town cemetery, take left at next set of lights onto Birch Meadow Drive, go past Coolidge Middle School and take next right on Arthur B. Lord Drive.

"Every bank in America wants your business. Friends ask to invest. You family claims you as 'their own.'"

Heaven forbid if you should fail. He adds glibly, "Everyone will say they were right in the first place."

No matter what obstacles you face, no matter what people around you say, Mike's advice is to hang in there. If you believe in yourself, and you know you've got a good idea or product, chances are there will be a need, or you will create a need, and you will be successful.

Moving on: Another former Woburnite doing well for himself is Fred Cornetta, a thirty-eight year old musician who's come up with just the right blend of talent and high-tech. Fred is currently one of only a handful of skilled musicians to incorporate new technology with classical music, his first love. I've heard his music, and you'd swear he had a full orchestra behind him, yet he is actually performing as a solo act. The trick is not with tape recorders, either.

"Each keyboard and modular unit are linked together, controlled by a 'brain' called a sequencer," he explains. "The music is cued in and digitally processed. During a performance, the sequencer responds to my commands on stage and 'kicks' the keyboard into action."

The high-technology might lead the listener to believe that Fred isn't actually playing the keyboard, but he insists this isn't the case. "Definitely not. Think of each keyboard as a different section of an orchestra, with strings, horns and so on. I play one or two instruments 'live' and control other 'sections' through the sequencer. You might say I am a conductor-performer."

In spite of all this high-tech electronic 'wizardry,' nothing replaces traditional instruments. "It is what it is — electronically-produced music performed on electronic instruments. Quite simply, listeners hear compositions composed by eighteenth century masters played on twentieth century instruments."

No matter what the listener thinks when he hears Fred play his electronic instruments, he assures us high-tech music is not a means of "taking a short cut." "Music technology never ceased evolving since Neanderthal Man made drums out of sticks and logs. Even sophisticated music lovers are unaware that eighteenth century audiences did not hear the same sound from Mozart's harpsichord that they hear from a contemporary harpsichord."

"Resonance from today's acoustic instruments is far superior. Same music, totally different sound," he concludes.

Fred's rule of thumb when seeking "gigs" is "Why hire the pianist when you can get the whole orchestra." Sounds great to this columnist.

One final note: The situation in Libya has evoked a myriad of responses from Americans, but none so bizarre as the one from Patrick Conlon, of Winchester. Patrick has his own ideas on how America should deal with the crisis in Libya.

"I think we should drop all of our old junk over Libya," he notes. "Old Refrigerators, old stoves. The junk would block their roads, mess up their buildings and ruin their lawns. Can you imagine some Libyan guy out mowing his grass and suddenly looking up and seeing an old refrigerator falling from the sky, heading right for him? There would be nobody around to clean the mess up. If we wanted to be humanitarian, we could remove the doors of old

PUBLIC AFFAIRS FORUM

"The American Farm Crisis: How much can the Government do?" will be the topic of a debate Wednesday, April 30 at 8 p.m. in the Public Affairs Forum of the Institute of Politics, 79 John F. Kennedy Street, Cambridge. Debating this issue will be: John Block, Secretary of Agriculture (1981-1985); and Charles Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture (1948-1953). The event is free and open to the public.

ICE CHIPS '86

The Skating Club of Boston will present the 74th annual production of Ice Chips, May 2nd through 4th at Boston University's Walter Brown Arena.

Headlining this year's spectacular show will be the 1986 World Champion, Brian Boitano, World Bronze Medalist; the exquisite Tiffany Chin; and U.S. Ice Dance Champions, Renee Roca and Donald Adair. Also features will be rising stars from the cream of United States figure skating. Come see America's original skating show with today's hottest stars. Call 782-5900 for tickets and information. Also, the box office is now open at the Skating Club, 1240 Soldiers Field Road.

Proceeds will go to benefit Amateur Figure Skaters training in the Greater Boston area for the Olympics.

ADOPTION

"International Adoption" will be the theme of a public information meeting of The Alliance for Children, a Needham-based, state licensed, no-profit adoption agency, on Tuesday evening, April 29, 8 P.M. at the Needham Presbyterian Church, corner of Great Plain and Central Avenues.

Filis M. Casey, Executive Director, and the staff of social workers will present the criteria, prerequisites, and process of international adoption. Two adoptive families will be present to share their experiences.

The Alliance for Children places babies and children of all ages throughout most of Massachusetts. Most of the children are from South and Central America, although placements are also made from India and other countries, and of black or multi-racial children from the United States.

Eligibility requirements of adopting couples vary from country to country, as do the processes and length of waiting-time. Couples under age 36 will usually experience the shortest wait for babies. Currently, the Agency has limited resources for single persons.

The Alliance for Children also provides services to those pursuing a Parent-Identified Adoption.

Anyone interested in adopting or learning about adoption is invited to attend. There is no charge.

WORD PROCESSING

Word Processing, an intensive 15-hour course is available at Middlesex Community College, Division of Continuing Education/Community Services, Burlington Campus, Terrace Hall Avenue every two weeks. There are evening and afternoon programs at convenient hours. This individualized program requires a minimum 40 WPM typing speed in order that the maximum benefit may be gained by the student. Each student spends all of their instructional time working on the latest WANG electronic equipment. The skills that are acquired can be transferred to many other types of equipment. This course is a very effective way to update office skills and to acquire new ones that are very much in demand in business and industry. To register, call 275-8910, ext. 291.

MAGICAL WEEK

The surprises abound and the magic keeps coming — week after magical week at the Cabot Street Cinema Theatre in Beverly. Year round, since 1977, the 60-member stage ensemble of Le Grand David and His Own Spectacular Magic Company, produced and directed by Marco the Magi, continues to perform on the stage of this 800-seat, 1920 playhouse.

On Sundays at 3 P.M. and selected Saturdays at 8 P.M., the LeGrand David company presents its long-running stage magic extravaganza. Highlights of the upcoming schedule are performances April 27, May 4, 11, 18 and 25 at 3 P.M. and May 24 at 8 P.M.

Now with more than 1020 consecutive performances at the Cabot, the ensemble presents two-and-a-half hours of spellbinding surprises and fun. Three generations of stage magicians — Marco, Le Grand David and Seth the Sensational — perform fifty classic full stage illusions. And there's more. Spanish clowns, jugglers, dancers, and musicians surround each number in colorful array for stage spectacle reminiscent of the sunrise of this century.

There's stage magic every week on Cabot Street.

Tickets for general seating at Cabot performances are $7.00 for adults, and $5.00 for children eleven and under. For further information, call (617) 927-3677.

CANOE TRIPS

In celebration of its Tenth Year, the Ipswich River Watershed Association is sponsoring a series of five canoe trips, every other Sunday, beginning April 20, to encompass the entire navigable length of the Ipswich River. The first trip will involve putting in at the bridge on Woburn St. (off Concord St., exit of Rt. 93) in Wilmington, and will take out at Central Street, North Reading. Participants are asked to meet promptly at 10 a.m. and to bring lunch. Call Alan at 356-9446 (Ipswich) or 887-9685 (Topsfield) for reservations or further information.

The second leg of the river trek will put in on Sunday, May 4, 10 a.m. at Central St., North Reading and take out at Rt. 62, Middleton, below the Bostick dam. Call Larry at 922-0323 (Beverly) or 887-9685 (Topsfield) for information. May 18 will set up put in at Rt. 62, Middleton at 10 a.m. and take out at Salem St., Topsfield. Ray Farnsworth of Middleton will lead this trip and should be notified prior to that time at 774-4493. The fourth trip will be led by Walt Harmer of Topsfield 887-8671, on Sunday, June 1, from Salem St. to Asbury St., beyond the Wenham Swamp, in Topsfield. The final segment of our river trek will put in at Asbury St., Topsfield and take out at the Ipswich Town Landing. This section of the river involves a carry around the Willowdale Dam and some rapids which are the closest to white water in the Ipswich. Some experience canoeing would be advisable. Call Alan at 356-9446 for reservations or details.

The Public is invited to join these IRWA canoe trips. There is no charge for them, but advance notice of whom to expect is helpful for car-pooling, getting started on time and should there be a drastic reason to change the event. Refreshments are encouraged, but littering is not. Spring is a beautiful time of year to appreciate the sense of wilderness afforded by the Ipswich River, right in our backyards.

STEPPAMILY ASSOCIATES

Your stepfamily can become a safe and reliable place to live. We all have a picture of family; it is not usually a stepfamily. Come to workshops to meet others in step-relationships and to discuss the process and the many issues involved in becoming a comfortable new family. Issues discussed involve: discipline, dealing with the ex-partners, children's conflicted loyalties and having enough time to be alone with your partner, your children or just by yourself.

Workshops monthly. Next date: Sunday, May 11, 6 to 9 p.m. For more information call 738-5533 or 734-8831.

SCHOLARSHIP

The Quannapowitt Players of Reading announce the availability of a five hundred dollar scholarship.

Any student graduating from an area high school in 1986 who has been accepted by an advanced school or college, and who plans on studying theatre arts or a related field, is eligible to apply.

Applications are available in the guidance offices of the local area high schools, and must be returned to the Quannapowitt Players by May 5.

For further information interested students may send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Mark G. Riley, Quannapowitt Players, Inc., 55 Hopkins Street, Reading, Mass. 01867.

MOTHERS OF TWINS

Founding Chapter, Massachusetts Mothers of Twins Association, Inc. will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday, April 28 at St. Margaret's School Hall located at 111 Winn Street, Burlington. The meeting begins at 8 p.m. and is open to all mothers, grandmothers, and guardians of twins and other multiples.

Founding Chapter is one of 20 Mothers of Twins throughout the Commonwealth and is also a member of the larger organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs which numbers almost 9,000 members.

For further information regarding Founding Chapter please call Barbara Poore at 933-8066 or write to our permanent mailing address at Box 25, Arlington, Ma. 02175.

LOCAL ARTIST FEATURED

Depot Square Artists, "Recent Work", Main Gallery, May 1 through June 4. Reception, May 4, from 2 to 5 p.m. Shoshanah Gale's work is in fabric and paper collage and Richard A. Hansen's will show his abstract acrylics on canvases. Andrea Peters from Wilmington will feature her oils. Works of other gallery members will be exhibited concurrently in gallery wing. Hours: Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., 1837 Massachusetts Avenue (lower level), Lexington, Mass. Phone (617) 863-1597.

PRE-RETIREMENT

"Pre-Retirement Planning — Whose Responsibility?" is the topic of the next Employer

Health Planning service breakfast seminar to be held on Thursday, April 24. The seminar will be held from 8 to 10 a.m. at Howard Johnson's, Route 1 in Danvers. The seminar will feature Mary Kelly, Director of Senior Services for the Town of Danvers.

The Employer Health Planning Service is a function of the North Shore Health Planning Council. Area businesses and interested individuals are encouraged to attend. To register, please call Sharon Thompson, Director of Community Relations at 531-7006 or 593-0246.

FREE CAREER WORKSHOP

Middlesex Community College will offer a free intensive one-day career workshop designed to introduce participants to the process of career/life planning and to assist those who wish to refocus their career direction on Tuesday, May 6 from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Burlington Campus. The program is limited to 20 participants. For information and to reserve a space contact Stephanie Jannakas at 275-8910, ext. 212.

TARTAN BALL

The Scot's Charitable Society will hold its annual Tartan Ball on Friday, April 25 at Moseley's-on-the-Charles in Dedham. The Ball, which is sponsored by the oldest charitable organization in the United States, is held to raise funds for the Society's scholarship program.

The Tartan Ball is a colorful event. Many people attending wear kilts and plaids of their traditional clan tartans. The Ball begins with a grand march led by pipers playing such well known tunes as "Scotland the Brave".

This year, the Schiehallion Dance and Music Troupe will present new and old favorites including the Sword Dance, Highland Fling, the Scottish Lilt and others. Piper Jim Fee will accompany the troupe.

The John S. Shea orchestra will provide the music for ballroom and popular dancing. The evening ends with the traditional playing of "Amazing Grace" and singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Admission, which costs $12 per person, includes a light buffet as well as entertainment and dancing. Reservations are required.

Tickets can be obtained by contacting Mr. Alexander L. Johnston at 662-6760 (Melrose) or Mr. Kenneth Wallace at 233-0184 (Saugus).

32ND SEASON

Beverly's North Shore Music Theatre, for the first time this season, is offering dinner-performance package discounts of up to 15 percent to groups of 20 or more Monday through Friday evenings and at Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The dinner-performance discount is being expanded to cover the theater's eight major productions and is available Monday through Friday evening and at Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Group discounts are also available for theater tickets only.

The 32nd season at the arena-style summer theater opens June 16-21 with the swing musical, "The 1940's Radio House," followed by the legendary vocal artist Tony Bennett in Concert, June 23-28. The other major productions for which the discounts will be available are Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance," June 30-July 5; Andrew Lloyd Webber and Time Rice's first hit, "Jesus Christ Superstar," July 7-July 19; Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I," July 21-August 2; the longest-running show in Broadway history, "A Chorus Line," August 4-18; and star of stage and screen Debbie Reynolds, August 25-September 6.

The discounts provide groups with an unusual opportunity to enjoy lunch in the attractive air-conditioned Theatre Restaurant before Wednesday and Saturday matinees, and dinner before evening performances, both at special prices for groups only. The restaurant overlooks the beautiful gardens of the Music Theatre's 26-wooded acres.

The group dinner is $11 with several choices available, and luncheons at the Theatre Restaurant, or a specially prepared box lunch that can be enjoyed on the theater grounds, are $4.25. The theater ticket is extra with a 10 percent discount for groups, regular ticket prices range from $12.50 to $20.

For a detailed brochure on the 1986 group program at the Music Theatre call (617) 922-8500, or write the North Shore Music Theatre, Dunham Road, P.O. Box 62, Beverly, Ma. 01915. The

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

I could walk up a gangway of a destroyer, cruiser or carrier years ago and could tell instantly the caliber of the captain in charge. The officers and crew of any Navy ship, are like a good mirror — they indeed reflect a true image of the commanding officer. I remember and recall vividly the dramatic change that took place after a change of command ceremony on the USS Kenneth Bailey DD 713. I just knew that something hit the fan. The men on watch detail were alert, the "Hear this, clean sweep down fore and aft" was not ignored, and the hand salutes were brisk and snappy. It was really a complete turnaround in attitude and discipline. It wasn't long before every member of the crew of the USS Bailey was proud to boast that "the DD 713 is MY SHIP!"

Some of the cities and towns are fortunate to have leaders who earn the respect of their respective cities and towns. Entering a city or town is to me like walking up a gangway of a ship. I notice the cleanliness of the streets, the absence of "potholes," the pride that people take in the upkeep of their homes, lawns and shrubs. I observe the alertness of the police on duty (who incidentally have the toughest, thankless job of all). I am proud that Woodchips in the "Middlesex East Supplement" goes to areas that fit that description.

Michelangelo was a sculptor, painter, architect and poet. Very few know that his last name was Buonarroti. It really doesn't make any difference because he shunned publicity. He chiseled his name on only one of his many sculptured masterpieces and that was the famous Pieta. He was only 23 years old when he finished what the world considers a "Miracle in Marble." Michelangelo worked for four years laying on his back painting the Sistine Chapel ceiling in St. Peter's Basilica. When it was finished the workers took the staging down and at the dedication ceremonies the Pope with his entourage of Cardinals and Roman dignitaries inspected the many scenes depicted. The Pope turned to Michelangelo and said, "it is truly beautiful, but," he whispered, "don't you think it needs another coat?"

My neighborhood is today just as it was in my childhood, made up of families from various ethnic origins. They were friendly, congenial and above all understanding of the different national traits. Most Sunday afternoons in the summer, the Campbells would practice playing their bagpipes.

Sometimes the children of the area were invited to march along with them as they tried out their routines. I can recall vividly the true friendliness of these wonderful people. Perhaps the wee bit of burr that I speak with today is due to their influence. From my experience with them I can emphatically say that they are not as frugal or conservative as the stories often told about the Scots. To prove that they tell jokes about themselves, Tommy Cochran told me that a relative of his was dying. Mary, his wife, was at his bedside reading to him by candlelight. "Angus," she said, "I have a chore to do downstairs

— if you feel yourself slipping away, PLEASE, blow out the candle!"

In honor of the late General and former President of France, Charles DeGaulle, France may buy the Rock of Gibraltar from England and rename it "De Gaulle Stone!" If I were a judge in a Junior Miss Beauty Contest, I would have to disqualify myself if Cathy Catalucci was a contestant. Because, I would be tempted to vote for her without looking at any of the others. The reason is I know this lovely young lady. She has poise, beauty and personality and above all else a refreshing "Joie de Vivre," which makes her an outstanding young lady.

The officers and crew of the oldest ship in the Navy, "Old Ironsides," are picked for their strong "Constitution." A neighbor of mine went back to Egypt to be near his "Mummy." When I was a kid and Lincoln was President all the kids believed that Heaven was a Candy Store in the sky. The store owner who I remember was a paragon of patience as he waited for each child to make up his or her mind on that monumental decision of how to spend one penny.

There ought to be one night a week of no TV broadcasting so that maybe some of us can learn the fine art of conversing with one another again. It wouldn't work in my house, however, because sometimes its weeks before I say anything to my wife because I hate to interrupt her.

You know folks, most of those weather forecasters on TV or radio would be lost if they didn't get their almost hourly report from the US Weather Bureau at Logan, Bedford and the hundreds of way stations that form a gigantic network. What some of those forecasters do wearing their three-piece suits is give an educated guess and hope they are right. Ask any pilot, farmer or major construction company foreman who they rely on.

Rowan Fitzgerald, has faith in his method. He ties a piece of rope to a tree branch, if it swings back and forth — it's windy, if water drips from it — it's raining. "I got my money through hard work," boasted a man in a pub. "I heard you inherited it from your uncle," said one of the listeners. "I did — but it sure was hard work getting it from the lawyers probating the will."

My wife Kathy is without a doubt the world's worst cook and baker. Her marble cakes belong cemented on a patio floor. She hasn't talked to me for a week because I ate a delicious piece of cake last week and made the mistake of asking her, "this is the best cake I've ever eaten — tell me dear, did you 'BUY' it yourself?"

Dear readers, if you find this column below par in quips, jokes and anecdotes you are right. My oldest sister, Mary, passed away April 10 and this is written on the 12th. I hope you recall my Christmas story of two years ago. Uncle John had asked Mary to go with him to Boston Organ and Piano Co. in Reading, ostensibly to pick out a piano for himself. Mary was to choose one as if it were for her. (It turned out that it was for her.) She received it one week before Christmas Day, as a present from Uncle John. The family thanks you Uncle John Shea for the happiness and joy Mary got playing her Christmas present from a wonderful guy. The following poem is a tribute to nurses everywhere, but especially at the Winthrop Hospital.

"The Florence Nightingales"

You are angels of mercy on your appointed rounds. Carefully listening for unusual sounds. Patiently walking through day or night, you are heavenly visions dressed in white.

You stop to soothe a feverish brow, a child is calling for you now. You hold his hand and calm his fears, then wipe away those falling tears.

I know God has great love for you, because he chose so very few. You've an honored place in our hearts too, reserved for those so good and true.

number was not less than three million.

"To that astonishing figure must be added a large, if indefinite, number who read at a glance from passing streetcars, wagons and automobiles, or read the hundreds of 'pulpits' that are illuminated all night."

Among that indefinite number, Sanderson counted a young woman in a big eastern city who was on a streetcar, "bound for the river side intent on throwing herself in. There was a Wayside Pulpit in front of a church on the trolley line (and)... she caught a glimpse of the message in large type. She got out of the car and went back to read: 'Character is what you are. Reputation is only what men think you are.'"

The upshot, Sanderson said, was that she sought out the pastor of the church, explained what her intention had been, decided against taking her own life, and ultimately became "a healthy, useful member of society."

Sanderson composed all the messages in those early days, Gagnon reported, but subsequent editors of the wayside pulpits have derived messages from a variety of writers.

Gagnon, who assumed the wayside pulpit editorship in the mid-1970s, said he gets the current selections from Unitarian-Universalists and

REATER BOSTONIANS

For more than ten years from the early 1970s to the early 1980s the Greater Bostonians, representing the finest music talent from eastern Massachusetts high schools, performed for the enjoyment of millions of New Englanders via concerts, television and recordings.

A new "alumni" unit of The Greater Bostonians is now being formed to present a series of concerts for The Jimmy Fund.

All former members are invited to join. Auditions will be held in the Spring of 1986. The concert schedule will commence in 1987.

Former members can secure further information by calling evenings 245-4894.

ROSE SOCIETY

The New England Rose Society will sponsor its annual Flea Market and Auction in conjunction with the annual opening of its Rose Garden which includes rose pruning and garden preparation demonstrations. There will be plants, baked goods and lovely homemade items available. The place is the University of Massachusetts Field Station, 240 Beaver Street, Waltham. The time is 10:00 A.M. Free admission-public invited. Free parking.

I like your idea, Patrick, and in fact, I've got this 1975 Ford LTD that would make a great bomb over Tripoli...

forth wrath and destruction, but which will yet bring forth unpredictable beauty.

"For fire, thunder, and tempests are to the Earth what hatred, envy and evil are to the human heart. Water Short Takes

Short Takes

Water Starring Michael Caine, Brenda Vaccaro, Valerie Perrine, Billy Connolly, Leonard Rossiter. Directed by Dick Clement. Produced by Ian LaFrenais, David Wimbury. Screenplay by Clement, LaFrenais and Bill Persky. Rated PG (profanity).

The sky is a peaceful blue and the ocean appears cool and inviting. But, on the tiny Caribbean island of Cascara, the gusty wind blows in all directions, and bears the distinct odor of the governor's mid-day marijuana break.

The tides have swept in this irreverent British import that manages to swim instead of sink in a sea of silly, good-humored antics. The nucleus of the film revolves around Michael Caine as Baxter Thwaites, an eccentric British diplomat who writes impassioned pleas to England for financial aid for his forgotten island, and is always ignored. The First Lady of the island is his tequila-totin', loud-mouthed Latino wife, portrayed with just the right amount of bad taste by Brenda Vaccaro.

Things have always been quiet and easy going on Cascara, until an American oil company discovers that a long forgotten rig is actually sitting on billions of gallons of lemony-tasting mineral water. That's when everyone wants to get into the act, from a Texas millionaire to French guerillas. There is even a singing rebel with Cuban connections and one young woman who wants to save a colony of long-eared horseshoe bats. If this sounds balmy, it is. But Water is as consistently funny as it is silly.

One of the reasons that this flick survives its potty plot is that the dialogue is crisp, biting and delivered with utmost sincerity. When Vaccaro asks Caine, "Where has the magic gone?" He responds, "Oh. It's magic you want? When we get home I'll lay you on the table and saw you in half."

There are several surprise cameos in the film, including a jam session featuring Eric Clapton, Ringo Starr and the movie's executive producer, George Harrison. And, remember J.J. Walker? Well, he shows up as a disc jockey who bears a striking resemblance to Bob Marley.

The bottom line of this aquatic excursion, is that Water, which sat on a studio shelf for a few years, is the biggest, and most pleasant, surprise of all.

American politics. James Woods as a photo-journalist and his buddy, James Belushi, enlarge the tragic scope of the film as two men who live through the harrowing days of revolution in El Salvador. Rated R.

other friends, and from his own reading.

"What we try for," he said, "is not a glib quip, but a short thought that expresses in a fresh, new way what many will recognize as a lasting truth. At its very best it gives you a little 'Wow!' that represents a truth you really knew but didn't quite recognize until you saw it spelled out."

"We don't really expect to educate people in theology, economics or anything else."

Tidbit

What will Smokey the Bear think when he learns the U.S. Forest Service purposely torched 1,000 acres of Colorado timber with napalm? Stay cool, Smokey. International Wildlife magazine reports it was a friendly fire, set to create grazing grounds for a herd of bighorn sheep. Fire will become an increasingly common tool for renewing aged and disease-ridden western forests.

Band of the Hand is a rambling, violent story of five juvenile delinquents who band together to survive Florida's everglades and Miami's streets. Sound like it was made for television? It sure looks like it was. Rated R. *

Desert Hearts is an offbeat love affair about a woman who goes to Reno for a quickie divorce, only to find herself involved with another woman. Set in 1959, this quirky story is alternately funny and touching, and features a great soundtrack. Rated R.

Off Beat is a breezy film that requires you to accept a silly premise, but once you have, it definitely falls into the cute and entertaining category. Leads Judge Reinhold and Meg Tilly are both endearing as dancing cops caught up in a loosely structured plot that relies more on characterization than reality. Rated PG. ... 1/2

Ginger and Fred is a Federico Fellini film that is not only accessible to a broad audience, but is a sweet and honest story that takes several humorous swipes at the boob tube. True to form, there are still plenty of eccentric characters, but leads Marcello Mastroianni and Giulietta Masina as two old dancers reunited for a television spectacular are graceful, charming and full of emotion. Rated PG-13. 1/2

Smooth Talk employs Laura Dern's coltish beauty as a California girl teetering between childhood and adulthood. Urging her toward the latter is Treet Williams as a wily older man with seduction in mind. Director Joyce Chopra spins a magnetic story, but the film suffers from an unsatisfying ending. Rated PG-13.

Black Moon Rising is high on action and low on plot, and manages to run the gamut from suspense to Bondesque exploits without keeping our attention. Even the charismatic Tommy Lee Jones and a souped up auto can't save this film from its unbelievable script and a wooden supporting cast. Rated R. * 1/2

Red Cross needs volunteers

April 20-27 is National Volunteer Week. The Eastern Middlesex Region American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay is made up of hundreds of people who are committed to helping others in their community.

Their services range from transporting clients to medical appointments to typing in the office, to serving on planning committees. CPR and First Aid Courses are given throughout the region by volunteer instructors.

The Blood Services Program depends on the many workers who recruit donors and assist at bloodmobiles. The Red Cross Disaster Team is a welcome sight for the victims of fire and other disasters. Volunteers also work at food pantries, blood pressure clinics and holiday assistance.

The Annual Recognition Party to honor and thank this region's volunteers will be on Wednesday, May 7, 7 to 9 p.m. at the Stoneham K of C Hall. There will be a National-level speaker and a short presentation of service awards. Past and present volunteers are invited to attend. Reservations must be made by April 25 by contacting the Melrose office, 665-1351.

Women's Technical Institute plans 10th anniversary celebration

The Women's Technical Institute (WTI) will celebrate its Tenth Anniversary this spring with a gala celebration at the Computer Museum on Monday, May 5th, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. WTI is the country's only licensed, accredited technical school for women. The Anniversary party will feature NASA Astronaut Dr. Ellen Shulman as the keynote speaker. Dr. Shulman's address will focus on the achievements of women in technology, particularly in the ten years spanning the growth of WTI. In just one decade, the Women's Technical Institute has become a leader in the field of nontraditional education. Hundreds of women of all ages and backgrounds have trained for challenging and lucrative careers at WTI. Alumnae work in a variety of industries as electronic technicians, electromechanical drafters, field service engineers, and computer-aided drafters.

The Tenth Anniversary party will be a gathering of graduates, employers, students, staff, faculty and supporters to express their support for the continued growth of the Institute.

The Women's Technical Institute is a nonprofit organization dedicated to training women of all backgrounds, particularly low income and minority women, for higher-paying nontraditional jobs in electronics or drafting. WTI serves an unusually diverse group of adult women, aged 18-50, who come from different races, life experiences, and educational backgrounds.

Some students attend WTI because they are looking for a challenge; many feel trapped in dead-end jobs with no opportunity for advancement. Others come to WTI as career changers, disheartened with the traditional career paths available to women, and are looking for a future with upward mobility. The one thing they all share is an ardent desire for meaningful work, a decent salary, and security for themselves and their families.

To date, over 600 women have graduated from the Institute. Their heroic efforts to juggle school, family, and work have paid off with outstanding results. Many have gone on for advanced technical training; many have been recognized by their companies for outstanding performance.

Others have been promoted to managerial and supervisory positions, and some are continuing their education towards an engineering degree. All serve as outstanding role models for women entering nontraditional fields.

An awards ceremony, following the keynote address, will highlight the accomplishments of these women, recognize the companies who have hired them, and acknowledge the generosity of the many corporations and foundations who have supported WTI in its first decade. Special awards will be presented to AT&T, New England Telephone, and Xerox Corporation for their leadership in hiring WTI alumnae for nontraditional positions.

Concluding the program will be a special raffle to help raise money for renovations now underway at the Institute. Winners will receive exciting prizes ranging from a round-trip ticket for two anywhere in the U.S. or Mexico, donated by Omni Travel on Arrow, to a piece of antique furniture, donated by Enoch & Kidder in Newton.

WTI and its graduates have broken new ground for women, and the Tenth Anniversary Celebration will commemorate the Institute's first decade and launch its second.

Sponsors for this event at the Greater Lawrence C.A.S.A. Hispanic Task Force and Merrimack College's Office of Special programs. Tickets are $8 if bought in advance and $10 at the door. For more information call 794-3704.

Understanding the cause of child abuse

April has been designated "Child Abuse Prevention Month" in a statewide proclamation signed by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis. This series is sponsored by the Eastern Middlesex Council for Children. Join in the campaign against child abuse and find out what you can do by calling the Council for Children in Wakefield at 245-5267. The following article was written by Michael A. Finkle, Ph.D., a licensed psychologist who is working in the Melrose School system, and a member of the Child Abuse Committee.

We are all familiar with television advertisements alerting us to warnings of child abuse. Typically these ads depict a household argument in which the child becomes the target of a parent's anger for misbehaving. These dramatizations serve an important function of providing parents with a telephone number to call to get help if they are experiencing a high degree of stress which is in turn vented on their children. However, it is equally important to focus on ways that parents can prevent the family stress from reaching the level depicted in these commercials.

To prevent child abuse, one needs to understand why it occurs. It is widely accepted that child abuse begins with parental stress, which is in turn taken out on the child.

Therefore, prevention of child abuse must focus on ways to reduce parental stress before it reaches a crisis level. Many factors may contribute to parental stress including financial pressures, relationship or marital conflicts, and job-related stress. Any of these difficulties may add greatly to the stress of child-rearing. When pressures build, a child is often the most available outlet for a parent's frustrations and anger.

To prevent child abuse, it is important to realize that the child is not the cause of stress, rather the scapegoat of "stress-overload." Therefore, one must take steps to lessen the total amount of stress experienced. Fortunately, resources are available to support parents with specific problems.

For example, when financial difficulties impact on child-rearing, the Department of Social Services can provide valuable support to ease the burden, such as homemaker assistance to help with household tasks. Counseling and support groups can often help parents feel more in control of their own life and less likely to take out their anger on their children.

One significant way to lessen stress that parents experience is to provide them with stress outlets outside of the family. In today's society, a family is often an isolated unit and tensions and conflicts tend to intensify and rebound off family members. If individual family members can develop interests outside of the family they will have opportunities to channel their energy and hopefully feel less prone to act out their frustrations against each other. Parents should be encouraged to investigate activities in the community so that their lives do not revolve exclusively around the job and/or the home.

Also, it is often beneficial when a mother and father become involved in separate activities, to give each one an escape from the family for a few hours each week. Possible activities include civic or religious groups, volunteer work, or taking an extension course offered by a high school or a community college. Some might contend that it is the stress of being a parent of a difficult child that makes one vulnerable to acting out one's anger on a child. Being a parent is very stressful and the stress is heightened when children misbehave. For this very reason, parents need outlets for their stress so that they can better tolerate their children's behavior.

Tips for a 'child-proof home'

One of the joys of having a new baby is watching your child learn and explore a new world. But this exploration can bring some unpleasant surprises: the falls, burns and home accidents that injure so many youngsters each year.

As your child grows, so does the opportunity for getting into more mischief. With each birthday comes new ideas, new thoughts and new discoveries.

Being a parent can be peaceful or it can be anxious. UL, an independent, not-for-profit product safety certification organization, suggests that you follow these safety precautions to reduce your child's risk of injury.

GENERAL

Use a gate to block stairs or doorways.

Keep wastebaskets off the floor and check the floor for small items that could choke a child.

Never leave matches or cigarette lighters within reach.

Cap unused electrical outlets with protective plastic plugs or tape.

Leave a night light on, so youngsters (and oldsters, too) don't trip at night.

Use shelves or hanging pots to keep house plants out of the reach of young children.

Use extension cords sparingly and out of reach of a child's tugging and exploring fingers.

Never leave portable room heaters unattended. Keep away from furniture and drapes and teach children not to touch heaters.

Keep small appliances such as fans, lamps, and hairdryers out of the reach of cribs, playpens, walkers and high chairs.

Show children how to stop, drop, and roll if their clothes catch fire.

Remove the door from an unused refrigerator or freezer. Children playing in abandoned refrigerators can suffocate.

Install special safety latches on "off-limits" cabinets where cleaning compounds, paints, tools, etc. are stored.

Remove breakables from your low tables, such as glass figurines and ashtrays, and any objects with sharp edges.

Check the knobs on your television, stereo, and radio. If small ones can be pulled off, replace them with controls too large to fit in a child's mouth. They are available in stereo and electronic stores.

Inspect toys for removable parts small enough to be swallowed by a child. They present a potential choking hazard.

BATHROOM

Install a UL Listed Ground-Fault Circuit Interrupter (GFCI) in the bathroom and kitchen outlets to reduce the risk of a shock hazard.

Keep all razors, cosmetics and medicines out of sight, locked up and out of reach.

Throw away out-of-date drugs and store in-use medicine in child-proof safety bottles. Liquids and pills should be flushed

Modern explorers still face the unknown

By Joy Aschenbach
National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON — It's no Everest, but in the once "forbidden kingdom" of Bhutan, there is a mountain that still hasn't been climbed.

At 24,880 feet, Bhutan's Gangkhar Punsum is one of the highest unclimbed peaks in the Himalayas. Other unconquered heights await in neighboring Tibet and Nepal.

"Everest was the 'third pole,'" says Dr. Barry C. Bishop, a member of the first American expedition to reach its 29,028-foot summit, in 1963. After its initial conquest by a British group in 1953, there was no higher place to go except the moon.

There are places deeper than Mount Everest is high. "Less than 1 percent of the deep sea has been seen," says oceanographer Robert D. Ballard. "We are about where Lewis and Clark were when they were ready to shove off up the Missouri, but without their advantage of being able to interview Indians."

NEW UNDERWATER EXPLORERS

Ballard is now developing the next generation of underwater exploration vehicles, capable of being maneuvered at depths of 20,000 feet. "We know more about the backside of the moon than we do about the ocean depths," he says.

What about the land in between? All of it now has been sighted by satellite, but are there any places left unexplored on the ground?

"There's no nice, neat laundry list of the world, such as the 10 'hottest' places to go if you want to go somewhere where nobody's been before," says Jay Healdy of the Explorers Club.

But nearly 500 years after Columbus, there are still some places where man has never set foot. They are generally places where either the environment or the political climate has been too hostile. Or maybe they have been ignored simply because getting there first would not have broken a record.

By the second half of this century, the definition of exploration had changed from purely geographic inquiry to sophisticated scientific field research, says Bishop, vice chairman of the National Geographic Society's Committee for Research and Exploration. It's no longer enough to stick a flag in new ground, he says; it is important to bring back knowledge of the flora, fauna, fossil record, and geologic history. In the scientific sense, the number of unexplored places could be countless.

For the thrill of being the first to leave a footprint, places to head for include:

—Antarctica. "Certainly more than half of the continent has never been walked on," says Guy Guthridge of the National Science Foundation's Division of Polar Programs.

UNCLIMBED ICY PEAKS

"There are millions of square miles of featureless ice plain in the vast interior where people have not been. Most of the peaks in the Transantarctic Mountains haven't been climbed." On the coast, for example, 10,168-foot Mount Siple was first spotted from the air in 1940 and named, but it was 1984 before anyone actually ascended it.

—The Arctic. Some mountains that appear to rise from the sea on the east coast of Canada's Ellesmere and Baffin Islands, and extend 50 to 60 miles inland, have not been scaled, says George Van B. Cochran, past president of the Explorers Club. "I've been up there 10 times," he says. "I have some secret areas of my own. One, on the southeast coast of Ellesmere, I've come close to climbing three times. It's next year's adventure."

Also, says arctic expert John Bockstoe, there are bound to be unexplored places in the arctic regions of the Soviet Union.

—Australia. Thousands of caves — the entrances to perhaps 6,000 are known — underlie northern Queensland, but only about 400 have been mapped, says Brother Nicholas Sullivan, a geology instructor at Manhattan College who has been exploring caves since 1949. In them, he says he has found previously unknown fossil species as well as new living specimens — among them, cockroaches that live only underground.

Immense uncharted caves are hidden by the jungle on the neighboring island of New Guinea. "The greatest potential for finding undiscovered caves is in limestone regions of the world with no surface water, where people wouldn't live," says Russell Gurnee, an American who develops caves for parks.

—South America. A great salt flat in southwestern Bolivia contains huge expanses that have never been crossed, says Loren McIntyre, a veteran photographer of South America. So does an icefield on the border between southern Argentina and Chile.

STILL-TANTALIZING AMAZON

The Parima Mountains straddling Brazil and Venezuela have been traversed at the eastern and western ends, but many of the peaks in between haven't been, McIntyre says. Along the Andes in southern Peru and northern Chile, summits not high enough to break records have not been scaled. The once inaccessible Amazon region "has had people traveling all through it," but much of it still has not been studied scientifically, particularly in northern Brazil and southern Colombia, he says.

Elsewhere, there may be a sacred mountain in Iran, a stretch of desert on the Arabian Peninsula, or some steppes in China that have not been trod upon.

The adventuresome may never run out of unexplored places, because, over time, new land continually appears on earth. In 1963, for example, the rocky island of Surtsey erupted from the volcanic sea bottom off the coast of Iceland. After a 1971 storm in the Bay of Bengal, a muddy spit of land popped up between India and Bangladesh. And in a few thousand years, the Loihi Seamount will become another Hawaiian island.

A GRAND OPENING was held recently at the National Fitness Store at 125 Main Street, Stoneham. Owned and operated by Varoujan and Dikran Abkarian of Wakefield, their showroom displays the finest quality home exercise equipment. For body building and for keeping in shape, they have inventories of exercise bikes, treadmills, pulse meters, weights and accessories, rowers, single or multi-station units, total gym units, and Marcy Home Gym equipment. They also provide delivery and set-up of equipment free of charge. That, in itself, is a real advantage to shopping at the National Fitness Store. Drop by and visit. They are open seven days a week. Call 438-6611 for more information.

Coast Guard Auxiliary Day

On May 3, the U.S. Coast Guard First District will be sponsoring an event called, "Auxiliary Day" at the Coast Guard support center on Atlantic Ave. in Boston from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The First Coast Guard District includes the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. The purpose of this event is to recognize the many accomplishments by the devoted men and women of the Coast Guard Auxiliary in improving the safety of boating.

Throughout the past calendar year of 1985, Auxiliarists in the First Coast Guard District taught over 13,000 persons the fundamentals of safe boating in their sail, powerboating, and coastal piloting classes. As volunteers, Auxiliarists conduct these classes every year without any charges for their time. In addition these Auxiliarists of the First Coast Guard District, also performed over 14,000 free courtesy vessel examinations for safety standards that exceeded both state and federal requirements. In their operations, Auxiliarists also achieved some impressive statistics. They performed over 10,000 hours on patrols, assisted more than 1,800 boaters, successfully completed over 600 search and rescue missions, saved 22 lives and in excess of $17,000,000. of property.

Auxiliary Day at Coast Guard Boston is open to the public and will feature many activities as well as on-the-water demonstrations of Auxiliary's operational training.

Collins' 'Goldilocks'

"Goldilocks and the Three Bears" has just been announced as the next children's program at the Collins Center for the Performing Arts for two shows on Saturday, May 3, 1986 at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

To be staged by a professional Children's Company from Connecticut, this updated musical version of this famous children's story presents a new slant on this tale of misbehavior in the forest world.

"The response from our production of Pinocchio last fall was so positive, we decided to schedule 'Goldilocks,'" said Glen Gulezian, Collins Center Managing Director.

"We believe children need to be exposed to the best in theatre as they relate these famous stories to their everyday world," continued Gulezian.

A demonstration of "bear" make-up will be presented during the program. "Even smaller children will enjoy this presentation," said Gulezian, "since they will see that the bear is actually a person and not a real bear." Tickets are now available at the Collins Center Box Office, Shawheen Road, Andover, Mass. Group discounts for 20 or more are available.

For more information or telephone inquiries, call the Collins Center Box Office at 470-1905.

Civilization takes its toll on endangered species

The Endangered Species Act, enacted in 1973, was a landmark bill when passed, providing the first real protection for America's past and animal species. But 13 years after its enactment, how well are endangered and threatened species doing?

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service officially lists 392 species as "endangered" or "threatened" in the United States. Here's a look at just 10 of those species:

CALIFORNIA CONDOR — An estimated 26 survive, 21 in captivity and five in a Southern California canyon. Conservationists are fighting the federal government's plan to capture the wild condors and breed them in captivity, fearing the plan would open the condor's mountainous preserve to development and erase the bird's last slim hope of surviving the wild.

DUSKY SEASIDE SPARROW — Just two males are known to be living, both in a Florida breeding facility. Experiments conducted to "back-cross" breed the males with females from a closely related subspecies have shown some success. A male and a female bird, progeny of the second back-cross breeding, are considered 88 percent pure dusky seaside sparrow. Breeding will continue this year.

KAUAI O'O — Only a single adult male has been observed since 1981, but more may exist on the Hawaiian island of Kauai.

PUERTO RICAN PARROT — An estimated 20 of the birds survive in the wild, living in a remote highland forest on the island.

WYOMING TOAD — A 1984 survey found approximately 30 males in a mile-square area of Albany County, Wyo.

PERIDO KEY BEACH MOUSE — A single population of about 26 lives on an island off the Alabama-Florida border.

RED WOLF — Some 60 survive in captivity in U.S. zoos, but none is known to exist in the wild.

BLACK FOOTED FERRET — An estimated 128 are living in the wild in one site in Meteetse, Wyo. Additionally, six are in captivity, brought in from the wild by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Wyoming Game and Fish Department. But the population in the wild apparently has been decreasing, having been hit hard by a bout of distemper last year.

GRIZZLY BEAR — Denizens of northwest Montana and Yellowstone National Park, an estimated 600-1,000 live in the wild in the lower 48 states. Listed as "threatened" by the federal government, these massive animals are dwindling as they confront habitat loss and man's encroachment on their territory. Grizzlies need lots of room to roam; some have been known to travel as much as 670 miles a year in search of food.

FLORIDA PANTHER — Only about 30 survive in the Big Cypress Swamp area of southern Florida. The animals live in danger of accidents with automobiles traveling the highway that crosses their habitat.

Gardner Museum Oriental camellia garden honored with Spring Flower Show award

The Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum was honored with several awards for its entry of an Oriental camellia garden in the 1986 New England Spring Flower Show: "Enchanted Places."

The awards include a Blue Ribbon for 95 points or higher; First Prize, Silver Medal presented by the Trustees of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society to owners of gardens of exceptional merit; Cultural Certificate for an unusually skillful cultivation of the Camellia Alaska Beauty; Superior Commendation Certificate for the Camellia Spring Festival; and the Trustees' Trophy, a special award presented by the Trustees of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society for a practical, low-maintenance garden, seen from within, for outdoor living, with inviting but simple design and distinctive plant material to inspire the average gardner.

The Museum is open Tuesday 12:00 to 9:00, Wednesday through Sunday 12:00 to 5:00. Concerts can be heard weekly Tuesday at 6:00, Thursday at 12:15 and Sunday at 3:00. The cafe is now serving high tea Tuesday through Friday until 4:00; regular hours are Tuesday 12:00 to 8:00, Wednesday through Sunday 12:00 to 4:00.

Poem

MEMORY LANE

My mind is full of memories
While my eyes flow often sad tears
I grieve for my loss and the happiness
We shared those precious fifty years.

Each morn awakening I ask myself
How can I make it through the day
For my love, my pal, my everything
Has taken my heart away.

They tell me others have traveled
Down this very lonely lane
Why didn't I go first
To much is this constant pain.

Some folks will call you
And so often they will say
Carry on it takes time
Try to have a happy day.

You'll soon know you're friends
For they will keep in touch
They will help pass the lonely hours
And understand it means so much.

You're children are so busy
Often they are now man and wife
So they will usually say
"Now you must make a new life."

After fifty wonderful years
Sharing joy, love, and pain
How can I find a new life
As I walk alone down "Memory Lane."

"LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL"
We decided to make our day a little shorter in length. Some of our prospective customers felt it was too long to read, while still others assumed all those words meant our services were expensive. Quite the opposite is true. Our rates are very competitive, while we don't skimp on our needs. As we don't charge an hourly rate a flat fee will cover your function in its entirety including family parties, weddings, etc. Important to remember: we do not use tapes. Literally thousands of records at your disposal - from the 20's right up to today's hits. We are the only Disc Jockey service to be critically acclaimed by Boston Globe Magazine. So next time you need great music at your home or function hall give us a call and we'll do it all. "Let the Good Times Roll." We play the music of your life. Reserve your date now with Paul Lazzara at 944-4617. You'll be glad you did.

Ingenious IDEAS

Who said only plants need spraying? Now humans can enjoy they're own "mister."

Just beach yourself — in your backyard, pool, roof-top sundeck, or on the sand—and then cool down with one of the hottest items under the sun. It can be an ideal gift for sun worshippers and watersports enthusiasts.

A new way to keep cool comes in a convenient container.

It's a 24 oz. cool-down spray container that includes a detachable 16 oz. watertight storage compartment for valuables—money, keys, rings and watch. Or, you can fill the container with your favorite beverage and use the storage compartment as a drinking cup. What's more, you get a free whistle.

Audubon Bird-a-thon
The Massachusetts Audubon Society will host its fourth annual Bird-A-thon featuring

24 hours of birding endurance beginning at 6 PM Friday, May 16. The Bird-A-thon is fun competition for the novice and serious birder alike. Together they will fan out from Massachusetts Audubon sanctuaries across the state in search of record numbers of bird species. Birding efforts are sponsored by individuals who pledge money for each species recorded, helping to raise money for sanctuary environmental programs.

All are welcome to join a community

boating

birding team through a local Massachusetts Audubon sanctuary and to gather pledges from friends and neighbors. Armchair birders are encouraged to sponsor sanctuary teams by pledging from $.10 and $.1 for each species recorded. The money raised will support the local conservation, education, and research efforts of Massachusetts Audubon. For more information, call 259-9500, ext. 7630.

Get physical

From June 8 through September 1, the Museum of Science will present a program on the "Science of Sports". Find out what your body knowledge IQ is. Discover what you do when you work your body. This national touring exhibition features the latest in health, sports and fitness plus a rat that plays basketball-whiskers and all. Take part in workshops and clinics, meet sports celebrities and much more. No charge above general museum admission.

Vacation Planning Easy

Yankee Magazine's "Travel Guide to New England" is bigger and better than ever. This year, it has been expanded to include comprehensive travel information of the six New England states as well as New York State.

In addition to feature information, each chapter covers a different state, which includes calendar information and "favorites". The calendar listings give dates, times and places for special events. "Favorites" are tips from readers covering everything from unusual shops and museums to fishing trips and hiking trails they enjoyed most. This excellent travel guide to New England is available at news stands and book shops.

From boating to birding, from the Museum of Science to all of New England, COMING ATTRACTIONS looks high and low for events that can be enjoyed by all. But we miss our share and could use your help in finding local and regional happenings. If you know of anything at all, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. We have a grand capacity for the new as well as the familiar.

Scholarship applications

The Trustees of the Dr. Thomas P. and Edwina H. Devlin Medical Scholarship Fund announce the availability of applications forms for the academic year 1986-87.

This fund was created to assist worthy medical and nursing school students with financial aid to be applied towards the cost of tuition, books, and equipment. Last year, our 25th Anniversary year, a total of $5,500 was awarded to nine local students.

Candidates must already be accepted at an accredited medical or nursing school. Eligibility is limited to residents of Stoneham, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Wakefield, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn.

Applications may be obtained by calling or writing: Mrs. Jo Devlin, 34 Pleasant St., Stoneham, Ma. 02180, 438-7828. The deadline for submitting completed forms is July 1st.
